Foundation of Character

Basic principles of thrift and sound investment judgment, practiced at an early age, help to lay the foundation of a strong, self-reliant character.

The art of saving should be encouraged, and there is no better introduction to the world of investment than an initial purchase of a Dominion of Canada Bond.

Obtainable in denominations as low as $50, Dominion Bonds are the soundest investment available to any Canadian, old or young.

SIMPLE MATHEMATICS

You don't need a slide rule to prove that money grows quickly if you save REGULARLY. Even small deposits soon grow to very useful sums indeed, if you school yourself to add to them faithfully each month. Don't wait till you have a big deposit before opening a Savings Account. It is far better to start in a small way than not to start at all.

THEIR EXCELLENCIES THE EARL AND COUNTESS OF ATHLONE

Editorial

THIS has been an outstanding year in the life of St. Andrew's College.

The times have been difficult but perhaps largely for that reason our members have faced the real issues of their routine and have achieved great things.

Next year will be more difficult. No one now knows what that holds for us or for anyone. It is safe to say that whatever it may be, the same spirit that pervaded the school during the past year should be carried into the next. It is not necessary that boys at school should be made more war conscious than they are now, but it is necessary that in a time of war we should keep physically fit and ready and mentally alert. It is vital that in such a time we should work well, play well and live unselfishly and decently one with another. This will help us to emerge from this day of darkness and calamity with a better understanding of ourselves and of all men, and to face with reason the realities of an age of peace.

A Schoolboy Speaks of Education

M. T. WILSON, Upper VI

THE educational system of Ontario has two great faults. It is too modern and it is too old-fashioned. In an attempt to spoon-feed the students of today, those responsible for their education have succeeded only in boring them. The curriculum and the text-books present absurdities. The Honour English Literature course is in a measure a mistake. Is it possible that anyone could suppose that mass memorization will instill a love of poetry into anyone? It will rather cause hatred. And if there must be memory work why should not the pupil choose it for himself? If a pupil likes poetry the time will come when he will memorize poetry of his own accord. The book, "Short Stories and Essays", is compiled poorly. The anthologist fills the volume with a group of generally mediocre modern compositions, of which very few attain excellence. This is the alternative to things of Dickens, Thackeray, Hazlitt, or Addison. By a strange chance he does include Lamb and Conrad, but these are counterbalanced by their competitors. Certainly, no one could be inspired with a love of English Literature by reading such a terrible short story as "The Blackwater Pot," and such a helpless nonentity as "A Moral Exigency."

The Latin Course has one serious failing. There is no creative work. We should be required to write Latin poetry.

The Science courses also have their absurdities. The writers of the text-books, in an attempt to interest one in the subject, bring baseball games, rugby games and boat trips into their questions. How fatuous it is to suppose that a boy of seventeen who dislikes Physics is going to be lured into liking it by such bait! The way to interest a boy in his work is not by making it easy but by stirring his creative instinct. Geometry exercises are in this way possibly the best thing in the whole school curriculum. Any one who has worked out a different exercise experiences a tremendous satisfaction which inspires him to continue his work vigorously. Ingenuity and creative instinct must be fostered; to make use of these two faculties gives more pleasure and is of more value than memorizing a hundred plays of Shakespeare. I do not imply that languages do not require ingenuity. They do. What I do say is that this side of language study is not stressed sufficiently. Also I do not claim that the memory is an unimportant faculty. It should be trained, however, when a boy is ten or eleven and should be taken for granted when he is seventeen. How much more pleasant and exciting it would be if instead of asking one to describe certain events in a play, examiners asked for an explanation of Shakespeare's procedure in certain places. "Why did Shakespeare introduce Orlando in the first scene of 'As You Like It' and not Rosalind, for is not the latter the more important character?" Or in history "If Napoleon had not invaded Spain do you think he would have been defeated? Explain in either case." "Write a short essay in the style of Lamb, one of whose essays you have read this year." Such questions would interest the student and not bore him. Indeed the whole system of examinations is faulty. We should write our last examinations in Fifth form and from that time on work without them. If a boy is interested in French, how can he concentrate on it if he has Chemistry, Latin, Algebra and other subjects to take up his time? The time-table is too crowded. It is impossible for a boy to be equally interested in every subject. To crowd seven to eleven subjects on him in Lower and Upper Sixth will strangle his interest in certain of these subjects. Today we cannot risk the production of uniform machines which know so much French, so much Geometry and so much Physics; we must have individuality encouraged. We know too well the results which follow from the suppression of individualism. Let us reform our educational system before it is too late.

The Treaty of Versailles

M. B. E. CLARKSON, Upper VI

THE Treaty of Versailles, the biggest thing of its kind the world has ever seen, cannot be lightly condemned on the ground that it was short-sighted, revengeful, bad, or even criminal. There were great ideals behind it, as well as a great deal of pettiness and national greed. Mistakes, and plenty of them, were made and it is always easy to be wise after the accident, but one cannot help wishing that the Peace Conference had been held later in a neutral country, away from the passions which war had aroused and peace could not quench; that Germany's leaders had been admitted to the councils and allowed some influence in the shaping of the treaty; that Lloyd George had not been elected to power on the platform of "Squeeze Germany till the pips squeak"; and that Wilson had learned a little more European geography.

Geography, according to Wilson, was no longer to be the means of deciding boundaries. If national determination clashed with natural frontiers, national determination won, provided that it did not interfere with any of the Great Powers' ambitions. France's ambition was to make Germany impotent for ever. Short of killing off Germany's male population or permanently breaking Germany up into its component parts, this was impossible. But with Gallic intensity, France had decided that Germany as a power must cease to exist. The Treaty was being made in France and Clemenceau was the only member of the Big Four who really knew what he wanted. The result was that Germany was deprived of four million subjects and much wealth in coal and iron; Alsace and Lorraine were returned to France; Eupen, Malmédy, and Moresnet were taken by Belgium; North Schleswig, as the result of a plebiscite, decided to return to Denmark; Posen and West Prussia were given to the newly created republic of Poland, together with the richest industrial area of Upper Silesia. This transfer of land to Poland has always been one of Germany's special Treaty grievances. German hatred of Poland has always been greater than hatred of France, and, ever since 1919, Germany has determined to recover all territory lost to Poland. After the Great War, Poland was unwise in demanding so much land and in receiving a large percentage of Germans, who provided Herr Schickelgrüber with an excellent reason for anti-Polish propaganda. The formation of the Polish corridor was another, and very justifiable, German grievance, for East Prussia was completely separated from the rest of Germany, and all trade between the two had to pass either through Polish territory or through the Free City of Danzig, whose population consisted mostly of Germans.

Germany accepted as reasonable the Treaty's decisions defining the boundaries in the West, although, if the French extremists had had their way, there would have been a buffer state, dependent on France, created between the two countries. Lloyd George and Wilson, for once, stood firm, and France had to be content with a military occupation of all Germany west of the Rhine, and the demilitarization of a strip thirty miles wide on the east bank of the river. But, and this was one of the most important as well as one of the most stupid clauses in the Treaty, Germany's army was fixed at a maximum of 100,000 men and conscription was abolished. This attempt to eradicate Prussian militarism from Germany's mind was so extreme that it defeated its own ends. It was obviously impossible for a nation of 60,000,000 people to manage with an army of 100,000—hardly large enough to police the country and four times smaller than Belgium's army.

The settlement of the colonial problem furnished Herr Schickelgrüber with yet another cry with which to pierce the persecuted soul of the German Reich and arouse in its breast anger against hateful England, a desire for "Lebensraum" and a place in the sun, which was beating down on Tanganyika, on Togoland, on East, and on South West, Africa, on the Cameroons, on New Guinea, on Samoa, on Nauru, on the Marshall Isles, and on Kiaochow—lands which had been Germany's and, entirely due to someone's perfidy (probably Mr. Chamberlain's or Mr. Eden's) had, at the despicable and non-Aryan Treaty of Versailles, been presented to the British Empire, France, Belgium, or Japan.

The most difficult problem of all, however, was that of Reparations. Public opinion in France and England was clamouring for more money than Germany could possibly pay. The "business-man's estimate" of 1920 that Germany could pay twenty-four thousand million pounds was twelve times as great as the maximum sum that Keynes, the best British financial adviser, suggested. Eventually the sum of three thousand million pounds was decided upon. Most of this, however, would go to France, as it was to be compensation for damage to civilian property. Lloyd George was very well aware that this settlement would be ill received in England, where the people were expecting huge sums. The English premier, therefore, in order to lengthen his tenure of office, proposed, most unfairly, that Germany should also be forced to pay all pensions to widows and orphans of men killed in the war. France agreed to this, which meant the addition of a further five thousand million to Germany's war debt. The first instalment was paid, but after that Germany, her economic resources disrupted by the war, was quite unable to balance her budget, or to meet the preposterous Allied demands.

Wilson had announced that America wanted no share in the Reparations, but unfortunately he was quite uninterested in the Treaty's financial aspects, which he left almost entirely to Lloyd George and Clemenceau. Wilson's chief preoccupation was the League of Nations, which owed its existence to Wilson, an American, and which was to fail in its purpose because of its repudiation by America. Wilson, heading a special League of Nations Commission, got its report accepted. The Covenant of the League was solemnly adopted and became, in spite of Lloyd George's and Clemenceau's opposition, part of the Treaty. The League organization was to consist of a council of the Great Powers, but including representatives of minor states, and an Assembly including all members of the League. Provision was also made for the constitution of a Court of International Justice. This was an immense advance on the achievement of any former international conference and seemed to give real promise of peaceful years to come. The weeds of cynicism, nationalism, and greed, however, have successfully arrested the growth of what might have been a healthy plant. The League, and few people now deny this, has failed, and failed badly.

Twenty years after the statesmen of almost every nation, in the Hall of Mirrors at Versailles, had pledged their countries to uphold the peace of the world, the world was again plunged into a war, the causes of which sprang mostly from the Treaty. The best thing to be said for the Treaty is that it has shown this generation the results of a bad peace. Whether the statesmen choose to be shown or not, they have been warned.

The Battle of Narvick

W. G. BUCHANAN, Lower VI

THE five ships steamed line ahead through the blinding snowstorm. Off the port bow loomed the giant cliffs of the West Fjord gateway. Behind them, on their starboard quarter, lay the newly sown British mine-fields. Ahead the snow spread a white curtain, hiding the treacherous shoals and rocks of the West Fjord.

On the bridge of His Majesty's Ship, Hardy, a small group of officers peered intently into the night through high-powered night-glasses. Their faces were almost covered by the high necks of their heavy duffel jackets and the low peaks of their caps. Behind the officers, like shadows, stood the bridge ratings, the chief yeoman of signals, boatswain's mate, and quartermaster at the wheel. The group of officers broke up and one, wearing a cap which bore a peak gilded with oak leaves, began to give orders.

"Sound Action Stations, bos'n."

The bugle shrilled through the loudspeakers and muffled figures began to hurry to their posts along snow-swept decks. At the same time, the signal lamps on the superstructure of the Hardy began flashing the "General Call". One after another the grey cats answered their flagship and relayed the call. There was a pause and then "Action Stations" was flashed down the battle line.

"Unless the enemy are patrolling the fjord we should contact them at four o'clock," said the captain. "I hate like the devil to put the hands to their action stations so soon, it's just one o'clock; but we've got to play safe and be ready to engage a patrol. We'll get no warning of the enemy's approach in this blizzard."

Shortly before four o'clock the five ships slid silently through a narrow channel only a few miles from Narvick. They were negotiating unfamiliar waters solely by the compass and chart.

The navigating officer on the Hardy's bridge was poring over his charts, and beside him, watching intently the illuminated dial of the gyro-compass, stood the quartermaster at the wheel. It was a tense time. The navigator snatched the handle of the engine-room telegraph and signalled "slow".

"Starboard five," chanted the navigator.

"Starboard five," echoed the helmsman.

"Midships."

"Midships."

"Steady. . . . Port ten."

"Port ten," repeated the helmsman.

"Ease to five. . . . Steady as she goes."

"Keep in the lee of that point, helmsman, we'll see if we can give the Huns a little surprise," said the captain.

Suddenly the voice of the lookout bellowed through the bridge amplifier.

"Bridge—bridge! Enemy destroyer lying two points on the port bow. She hasn't spotted us yet."

"Forward turrets commence firing. Yeoman! Signal the flotilla to take up line of bearing to starboard," ordered the captain.

As the two forward turrets of the Hardy opened fire, the signal flashed down the line of ships. As each vessel received the order she dropped slightly to starboard of the next ahead and simultaneously opened fire.

"First salvo clean through her bows, sir," yelled the signalman as he watched the Nazi destroyer break into flames.

"Full speed ahead," hissed the navigator into the speaking tube.

One after another the grey destroyers leapt forward and with guns blazing they dashed around the bend towards the harbour.

"The Hun thinks she's being attacked by aircraft, sir, look at her pom-poms blazing into the sky," roared the first lieutenant.

"Pick up the targets, searchlights," bellowed the captain into the speaking tube. "Watch for other warships, there must be more here. Port eight, helmsman. Yeoman, hoist the signal for the others to keep station on us."

The destroyer wheeled and ploughed through the water, broadside to the harbour. The others followed in quick succession. The captain stepped to one side and pressed a button in one corner of the bridge. Almost instantly from their smoking tubes amidships, seven gleaming torpedoes leapt into the water at short intervals. One after another they splashed into the boiling waters of the harbour and purred towards their objectives. The range was point blank, and to miss was almost impossible. In a few seconds several tremendous explosions rocked the harbour, and a shower of sparks sprayed the jetty.

The first lieutenant moved up to the side of the captain. "Hostile is shelling the shore batteries, sir. She's got the range. . . . By jove, she's done for them!"

"Port sixteen, helmsman. Bring her about for another run. Yeoman, signal the others to carry on independently," ordered the captain.

The big flotilla leader dashed back in her own wake and opened fire on the Nazi destroyer first sighted. When the searchlights picked her up she was sinking rapidly by the stern.

"Jetty is in flames, a munition ship, and six supply ships on fire or sinking, sir," reported the chief yeoman.

"Bridge, bridge! Three enemy destroyers dead ahead," screamed the lookout above the din.

"Starboard eight. We'll give them a broadside," roared the captain.

With the white foam pouring over her bows the Hardy came about with all guns blazing. The Nazi warships had opened fire. There was a deafening explosion as the Hardy's decks were swept by the guns of the enemy. On the bridge, the captain suddenly clutched at the railing, badly hit by flying shrapnel. Only three men could be seen standing at the foremost turret.

Off the Hardy's starboard quarter H.M.S. Hunter was sinking by the stern in a pall of smoke, with her forward guns still firing. Hotspur, listing badly to port, was still battling outside the anchorage. One of the German destroyers was listing badly and all three appeared to be on fire.

"Two more enemy destroyers approaching on the port bow, sir," reported the chief yeoman, supporting his captain, who was still directing the engagement.

"They're trying to head us off and block our exit, keep her steady as she goes, helmsman, we'll engage them," ordered the captain.

The Hardy's guns opened fire on the oncoming destroyers. The big German ships replied with a withering fire from their five-inch guns on the small British craft. The Hardy was badly hit. She lost headway and slowly drifted towards the beach with her guns still firing. She released her last torpedo just as she grounded.

Daylight was breaking as the order was given by the first lieutenant to abandon ship. Barely visible through the morning mist was the crippled Hotspur withdrawing in the cover of her sisters, Hostile and Havoc.

"You can swim for it now, boys," said the captain, as several of the men helped him down from the battered bridge.

Through the icy cold grey waters the survivors swam over a hundred yards to shore.

On the beach a hero died.
The captain of His Majesty's ship Hardy.

Proposed Solution for International Trade

E. M. BALLON, Form V

THROUGHOUT the world to-day, the main topic of interest is undoubtedly the present conflict. Who shall be the ultimate victor, time alone can tell (and who are we to dispute such authority), but it is obvious that all will be culminated by decisive conquest. The victors will have confronting them an enormous task—that of restoring Europe, if not the rest of the world, to decent living conditions from the chaotic state to which it will probably be reduced.

Under the guidance of realistic and analytical economists and the unselfish patronage of those not reduced to poverty by the war, the world will sooner or later (probably later) take on the aspect of September, 1939. When the financial chaos of the war has at length been readjusted, the people of the world will become economically ambitious, with the result that commerce will be in a state worse than ever before, unless the correct policy in both home and international economics is pursued.

Problems such as labour, home reorganization, recovery from martial law, and the re-establishment of decent living conditions having been duly solved by the federal authorities, the governments of the world will then turn to the task of remaking international trade on a scale larger than ever before.

Trading between the nations is one of the most vital factors in the maintenance of world prosperity. Presuming, for the sake of argument, that the present conflict has been won by the Allies, I shall briefly outline a policy of successful international bartering.

The latter's importance may not be fully appreciated, but the extension of the external trade of all nations beyond present limits would have both a considerable influence upon the standard of living in the various countries and would aid in the maintenance of world peace. This is illustrated by the fact that, before the era of transportation, there had been an abundance of goods to be bartered, but since individuals and governments had little or no contact with the outside world, practically no trading was done. With the advent of the machine age, which resulted in more trading, the standard of living rapidly rose.

For successful foreign trade each country should first have successful home trade, and to this end the governments of the world should rigidly take care of home affairs dealing with commerce. They should establish a stable currency, linked with the gold or silver standard of the world and then leave the merchants to carry on. Thus, private gain would coincide with the public interest and welfare.

Governments with spheres of influence should not exercise complete preference towards any one nation, but should give equal bartering opportunities to both. Inevitably, if this policy goes unheeded, there will be a monopoly of trade power, causing maladjustments and, finally, trade stagnancy.

Since the chaotic conditions following both inflation and deflation have already been experienced, they must be rigidly guarded against, and, moreover, a stable level of prices must be arrived at.

Tariffs, originally to protect the currency, are now a protection to home industry, and, with the fall of prices, have gone up. The Oshawa issue, concerning the complete manufacture of automobiles in this country, illustrates this most vividly. Tariffs, therefore, should be controlled by a federal board of efficient economists, unprejudiced in any way.

A Board of Tariff Commissioners would seem, in this case, to be the most suitable suggestion, for, since it would be in the hands of the Civil Service, all graft would disappear, and there could be only the most advantageous results. As Lord Macaulay said: "There were seamen and there were gentlemen in the navy of Charles II, but the seamen were not gentlemen and the gentlemen were not seamen," so might we say, "There are economists and there are politicians in the Executive Council of Canada, but the economists are not entirely successful politicians and the politicians are not entirely successful economists".

What policies should be followed? First of all the instability of currency must be removed. The dollar, pound, and franc should be fixed at a definite ratio, and each country should broadmindedly assist with loans the country whose economic position starts to deteriorate. Should one nation fall too far behind, so that there would be a long-continued drain in one direction, the ratio would then have to be altered, either because it had been wrongly chosen at first, or because there had been a change of economic situation.

European and American banks should get together and try to keep a level gold standard, and each country should be very careful about its foreign investments.

Tariffs present a most difficult problem; they should be placed only on goods that will hinder home industries, and should be regulated accordingly. Each country, by bilateralizing its international trade policy, may have different rates for diverse countries and products.

Bilateral is more advantageous than plurilateral trading because it engages countries, which have close economic relations with each other; production is naturally complementary; currency systems are similar and disagreements are cleared up more easily when there are only two parties concerned.

All non-self-governing countries should have equality of economic opportunity with Great Britain and her colonies, and should be brought under the mandate system.

With the aforementioned policies rigidly adhered to and enforced, there would eventually be increased international trade of a fine and prosperous nature, which would again raise the standard of living to heights greater than those of 1929.

With all countries well-balanced as to imports and exports (one of the results of bilateral trade), nothing could result but prosperity, and everyone, from nations down to states and provinces, and from companies down to individuals, would be advantageously buying and selling.

It will no doubt be argued that the proposed schemes are fantastic, because of the great difficulty of enforcing them. This is unfortunately true, but should they be conscientiously pursued, all effort on the part of those concerned would be well rewarded.

Abraham Lincoln

D. P. FLEMMING, Upper VI

ABRAMHAM LINCOLN is undoubtedly one of the greatest men that The United States or any other country has ever produced. In a biography of him by a close friend, William Herndon, he is said to be the noblest character since Christ. Yet we sometimes wonder exactly why Lincoln should be remembered with such honour. We are tempted to ask "What specific task did Lincoln accomplish that he should go down in history as such a great person?"

Lincoln, born the son of a poor wandering farmer, became the President of the United States in 1860, after having served a term in Congress. It was from this time on that his actions had a direct bearing on the fate of his country. What did he achieve in this latter part of his life?

In the first place Lincoln realized that "a house divided against itself cannot stand". He wished to preserve the union of the United States at any price. This task seemed impossible because the country was composed of two diametrically opposed factions, the free north, whose small-scale farmers were ever progressing westward to acquire new land, and the slave-holding south, whose rich landlords were also striving for land in the west, and who, by virtue of their slaves, threatened to put the small farmer out of business. It was inevitable that these two factions should clash sooner or later. Lincoln's sympathies were mainly with the poor farmer and the free labourer of the north, and, while he was not an extreme abolitionist, he was fundamentally opposed to slavery. The southern states objected to Lincoln, a man opposed to the extension of slavery, as president of the nation. Shortly after Lincoln's election, they seceded from the union, and Lincoln, to save the union, declared war on them. The war which followed was a long and bitter one.

It has been said by some that during the first part of the war Lincoln allowed himself to be guided too much by his advisors. If this was true about Lincoln, he did eventually assert himself, and with the aid of such generals as Grant and Sherman, succeeded in guiding the nation through the worst crisis in its history. There was no other man who could have handled the situation as ably as he did. We may consider this, then, as one reason for his greatness in the eyes of the world to-day—that he held the union together during that awful tempest. Perhaps, if it were not for him, the vast land to the south of us would still consist of two separate nations, each with different ideas and ideals, and quarrelling continually with each other. We can see how disastrous that would be to-day, when the need is urgent for all the democracies to be united. Lincoln did one other thing, and that was to free the slaves. By doing this he abolished forever the landlord class who threatened the existence of the small farmers. Although there were many men who wanted to free the slaves it could not have been accomplished if Lincoln had not succeeded in bringing the war to a successful conclusion.

This man truly deserves the place that he holds in the history not only of the United States, but of the world.

The Old Order Changeth

C. G. COTTER, Form V

WE are today confronted by two of the most puzzling questions which have ever been brought to the notice of man. Will the old order change? And if it does, will this change involve the loss of life that other such changes have involved?

Mr. H. G. Wells has for many years prophesied "a new world order." But from the tenor of his books we may, with all fairness to him, say that he has gone to the extreme where all is entrusted to Science and nothing to the Great Scientist. Dissatisfied with pristine narrow-mindedness, he has swung to dreaming of a civilization without a moral foundation.

We have undoubtedly reached a crisis. To substantiate the dying words of the legendary Arthur, let us view the changes of life and living during the past few thousand years. Greece and its greatness fell at the battle of Chaeronea, 338 B.C.; her morale had collapsed just after the age of Pericles. Rome fell with Romulus Augustulus in 472 A.D. Her morals were decaying three hundred years before in the reign of Commodus 180 A.D. Old orders again changed in 1453 A.D., when the loss of the Byzantine empire to the Turks sent Columbus over perilous seas to a new world.

In the rush and bustle of the first World War the minds of soldiers and civilians alike became corrupted by bad habits, resulting from attempts to be relieved of worry.

Undoubtedly a change is coming. We may say that we are already too acquainted with materialism to be entering on a materialistic age. It is also obvious that the change will not merely be the policing of a wounded Europe by victorious Allies. It will certainly be a total change; a change in our whole outlook on life, a complete reorganization of our democratic system. Whether this change will be for good or for bad will be decided entirely by the strength of European and American character. If the change is for the worse we can expect to see rivers of blood for many years hence; if it is for the better we shall see a Christian community increasing like a yeast cell within the next hundred years.

Should War News Be Censored

W. A. LOFFT, Upper VI

WHEN a country is at war, the foremost objective of its government should be to win this war as soon as possible. One of the principal necessities for ultimate victory is a good, strong morale among the people. Lack of this caused the Russians' failure against the Japanese, the Chinese loss to the same people, and the German defeat in 1918. The best way to build up a country's morale is to keep the people thinking that they are winning.

The present situation consists of glaring headlines that go from the "sublime to the ridiculous", from good news to bad news every other day, and of special news broadcasts, which carry with them that sensationalism which the public seems to demand. This is little better than the German system of absurd propaganda, which undermines rather than bolsters their people's morale.

It would be best to censor the war news in such a way that only a true digest be given to the people. It is not uncommon now in this supposedly critical moment, to hear people talking about the end of the British Empire. Pessimists like these are more harmful than spies, and need only the slightest excuse to spread their gloomy thoughts among their friends.

The obvious objection to this plan is the seemingly disastrous possibility, when and if the country were losing badly and practically beaten, of the people finding out that the government had been deceiving them. However, it should not be difficult to keep the people from learning even this. America's statisticians estimate that the average intelligence of the average person is the same as that of a ten-year-old child. It should be an easy matter to make a ten-year-old child believe almost anything, and wars are won through the strong morale of these "ten-year-old" adults.

We have by no means lost this war yet, although some news agencies try to tell us we have. Though they would never admit it, our worst blunder was to give them a free rein, and the best way that we can expiate this is to censor all war news completely, and begin to try and build up the faltering morale of many of our people.

Breaking Up the Elements

H. INGRAHAM, Lower VI

SEVERAL years ago an element was considered to be something which could not be broken up into different parts. To-day that idea can be partially abandoned because some elements can now be decomposed. The slang expression for this new scientific feat is "atom-smashing".

All matter is considered to be composed of molecules; and molecules are in turn composed of atoms. Molecules are so small that even the ultra-microscope is unable to perceive them. If you were to take the smallest grain of sand you could find, and divide it into a million parts, one of these would approximately give you the size of a molecule.

Hundreds of years ago the kings of Europe had a mania for gold. They employed alchemists to try to make gold and silver out of lead and other base metals. At that time science was in its infancy and these alchemists knew very little about the elements. The kings became enraged when the alchemists whom they employed were not able to make gold; many even lost their lives. Since then science has developed rapidly, and every day more and more is known about the elements and matter.

Very recently an electrical generator of great size and of a novel type was constructed at Round Hill, Massachusetts. Its object was to supply enormous energy in concentrated form which could be hurled against the nuclei of atoms in the effort to break them up. This electrostatic generator is composed of two huge metal spheres, fifteen feet in diameter, on insulated poles. Each sphere and pole is a separate unit mounted on a truck which can be pushed along rails out into the open air. One sphere is charged with positive electricity and the other is charged with negative electricity. When these two poles are made to approach one another a violent discharge takes place which is due to the great potential difference between them. If this discharge is passed through a small tube containing the vapour of one of the base metals a change takes place. On examining the tube after the discharge minute traces of gold are found. This proves that some elements can be broken up.

The next invention produced to break up the elements was displayed at a recent science convention. A physicist in California uses an entirely different principle, and he calls his invention the "Cyclotron". His machine converts great quantities of electricity into a very powerful ray, which also changes base metals to gold. This machine is much smaller than its predecessor and surpasses it with regard to action and production costs.

It is all very well to say that we can do away with mines, because gold can be made from other substances. But the tremendous production costs would be greatly in excess of the value of the gold produced. The most we can say is that science has showed us a way to change elements; more than that no one can prophesy with accuracy.

Quebec: Pays des Vacances

R. B. RAMSAY, Form V

LA province de Québec offre une grande variété de beaux endroits pour passer ses vacances, aussi bien en hiver qu'en été.

Pour les vacances d'hiver il y a les Laurentides, où l'on trouve les meilleures pentes de ski de l'Est du Canada. Mais dans ces belles montagnes on trouve aussi une superbe beauté naturelle: car qu'y a-t-il de plus beau qu'une forêt de sapins sous une belle couche de neige fraîche? Pour ces raisons il y a des milliers de touristes qui trouvent leurs plaisirs chaque hiver dans les montagnes de Québec.

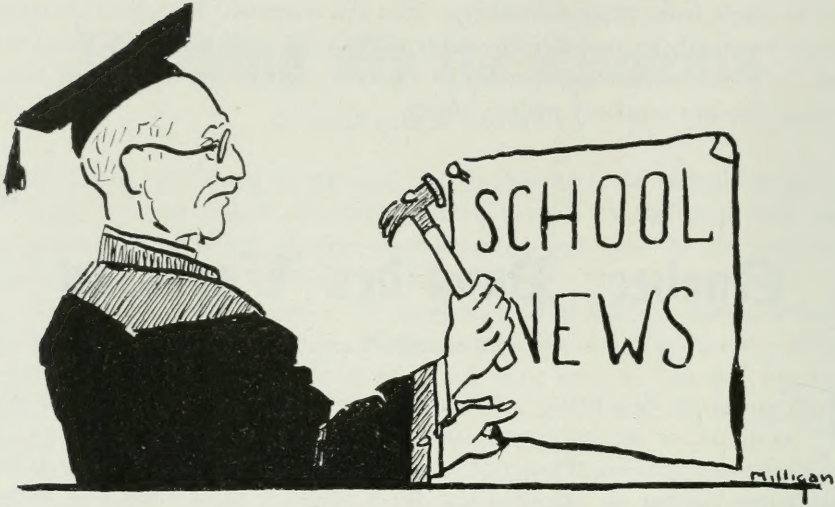

Les Laurentides ne sont pas seulement fameuses pour les sports d'hiver, car cette région est tout aussi belle en été, et l'on trouve là beaucoup de maisons de campagne. Cependant le pays est si vaste que même si ces retraites sont très nombreuses, on ne se sent pas trop près de ses voisins; en effet il y a bien des maisons loin des trains et des grandes routes, mais il y a aussi, pour ceux qui aiment les plaisirs mondains, de belles stations d'été comme Métis, Murray Bay et Ste. Agathe.

Un des grands avantages des Laurentides, ce sont les lacs, grands et petits, qui sont très nombreux; et dans ces lacs et dans les ruisseaux la truite et beaucoup d'autres espèces de poissons attendent le pêcheur.

Ces montagnes sont tout spécialement belles en automne; c'est alors qu'elles deviennent une masse de couleurs diverses et avec l'air pur et frais, quel plaisir que de se promener dans les bois.

Les routes de cette province sont très bonnes et elles nous emportent à travers des villages anciens et modernes. Un beau voyage en automobile est celui de Lévis à Gaspé. En aval de la ville de Québec, sur le St. Laurent on trouve que les habitants ont gardé beaucoup de leurs vieilles coutumes; par exemple, il y en a beaucoup encore qui cuisent leur dans des fours extérieurs.

Par ce que je viens de vous dire, j'espère vous avoir montré la grande variété de choses que l'on peut voir et faire dans la province de Québec pour passer des vacances très agréables; et avec tous les sports auxquels on peut participer je crois que cette province est un des endroits les plus agréables qu'on puisse trouver pour passer ses vacances.

Prize Day

PRIZE Day this year was held on Tuesday, July 13th, in the gymnasium, which was specially decorated for the purpose with flags and flowers. We were lucky to have a fine, warm day, which was probably responsible for the large number of visitors, most of whom stayed on to the garden party, which was held at the Headmaster's house after the prizes had been given out.

Sir Gerald Campbell, British High Commissioner, was to have been the guest of honour, but owing to the pressure of events he had to cancel his visit at the last minute. We were very honoured to have Sir William Mulock with us. The speakers were Bishop Renison, Dr. Sclater, Dr. Macdonald, and the Headmaster.

The prize list is as follows:

WE welcome Mr. Gordon Hewitt to the School. He has held the post of secretary of the Old Boys' Association for a number of years and has done much to place this organization in its present flourishing condition. Last year he was appointed to the Lower School staff as visiting master and this year he is to take over the duties of Mr. Macrae and also carry on his work with the recently re-organized Old Boys' Association. It will be of interest to know that Mr. Hewitt successfully completed a course for teachers at the Toronto Normal School this past year.

The School extends to Mr. and Mrs. Hewitt a very warm welcome.

Although Mr. Macrae is a member of the Lower School staff we would all like to take this opportunity of wishing him every success in his studies at Queen's University. His absence will be keenly felt throughout the whole school but that which is our loss will be the University's gain. They are indeed fortunate.

Chapel Notes

On Sunday, January 14th, Father Loosemore spoke in Chapel. He reminded us that it is now that we must make the inevitable choice between serving God and becoming enslaved to mammon and worldliness. On giving the matter careful consideration we can only realize more vividly how great is the necessity of making such a choice. Later, in Memorial House, he showed moving pictures depicting the work of the Church in the north.

On Septuagesima Sunday, Mr. Ketchum gave us an address on the evil of procrastination. How truly the Headmaster spoke! In our daily life we are often guilty of putting off something disagreeable to us.

On Sexagesima Sunday, Dr. Robinson spoke on the abolition by Jesus Christ of the superstitious belief in an avenging Jehovah and His introducing the conception of God as a loving Father. He spoke very well on an interesting subject.

On Quinquagesima Sunday, Professor J. C. Robertson, M.A., LL.D., of Victoria College, preached to us a sermon which was evolved from the choosing by Gideon of the Israelite warriors in the struggle with the Midianites. He gave an explanation of the choosing, and its application to modern life.

On Sunday, February 11th, the first in Lent, Mr. Wansborough of Lower Canada College, gave an address. His text was "Remember thy Creator in the days of thy youth!" Eccl. 12.1. He spoke most brilliantly and eloquently on the spirit of youth and its charm.

On the third Sunday in Lent, Rev. J. F. Davidson spoke in Chapel. In proposing to introduce justice into international affairs he defied "Si vis pacem, para bellum" and put forward the legend "Si vis pacem, para iustitiam".

Principal Malcolm Wallace, on Sunday, March 3rd, advised us to follow the wise warning of Christ that we should not worry about the future "for the morrow will take care of itself." He spoke most eloquently and his sermon was appreciated.

On Palm Sunday, the celebration of the Lord's Supper was held at 9.45 a.m. Rev. E. J. Thompson officiated and he preached on the ways men go—the high way, the low way and the way of a drifter.

That afternoon Rev. McGoey gave us the message that Christ is still facing the world and its criticisms as He did on the first Good Friday. It was an appropriate message for the beginning of Holy Week.

We had great pleasure in having Rev. W. L. Wright with us in Chapel on April 7th. He delivered stirring proofs of the authenticity of the Resurrection and conveyed its eternal hope to us.

On Sunday, April 14th, the Rev. Gerald Burch gave us a striking amplification of the wise saying of our Lord: "He who would lose his life will save it", and vice versa. Mrs. Temple delighted us with a beautiful solo.

Dr. E. W. Stapleford gave us a fine sermon on Sunday, April 21. He set forth a definition of religion coloured by his experience as a hero-worshipper. This done, he assured us of its essentiality.

Professor W. R. Taylor delivered a moving sermon on the great necessity of "going the second mile". It struck us as a fundamental truth of eternal significance.

Dr. P. J. Robinson gave us a sermon on May 5th. The purport of it was that if one had the "favour" of Christ, the "charity" of the Father, and the fellowship of the Holy Ghost, one would not be confounded.

On May 12th the Rev. J. B. Paulin exhorted us to perfect the little deed, the trivial kindness and to forego seeking to do great things in the sight of man.

On Sunday, June 16th, Dr. Thomson conducted the Communion Service in the Chapel. He gave us an interpretation of the Scene in the Garden of Gethsemane and an exhortation to follow Christ.

In the afternoon service Mr. Ketchum gave his farewell sermon for the year. He bade us, in the hard days to come, to model ourselves after Jesus Christ especially along lines of selflessness and courage.

Literary Society

Mr. Davidson Ketchum and Mr. Ouchterlony

On Saturday, February 10th, we had the pleasure of listening to Mr. Ketchum and Mr. Ouchterlony play in the Assembly Hall.

They opened the informal recital with a choral prelude by Bach.

Next came Strauss' "Tales from Vienna Woods", followed by a talk on the waltzes of Brahms and Chopin by Mr. Ketchum.

Three waltzes by Brahms were followed by the "Blue Danube" with variations.

As the grand finale of the evening we heard improvisations on "Polly Wolly Doodle" and "Drunken Sailor".

We are exceedingly grateful to Mr. Ketchum and Mr. Ouchterlony for this entertainment.

On April 29th we had a pleasant surprise. This was the presence of Archdeacon Scott at lunch. When we had finished our meal, the Headmaster introduced him to us and gave us an outline of his career.

Then Canon Scott arose and gave us a most enjoyable talk on poetry which he supplemented by a few recitations of his own poetry. Incidentally, his request for a half-holiday was granted. Thank you, Canon Scott.

THE FIRST DEBATE

The motion was "that conscription should be adopted in Canada as soon as possible." Buchanan and Cobban were the "yes" men, while Wilson and Frost took the negative side. After the speeches from the four debaters, a violent controversy raged among the speakers from the floor, but when a vote was taken the motion was definitely upheld.

THE SECOND DEBATE

To encourage debating among the Middle School boys a second debate was organized. Prizes were offered.

The motion put before the House was "That in the opinion of this House education should be painless."

This motion was proposed by Thiele, bitterly opposed by Cotter, seconded by Stapells, while Grant I seconded the Opposition. Thiele and Cotter were the last debaters to speak.

When the floor was opened to the House there were many enthusiastic speakers.

When, at length, the Judges' decision was given and a vote taken, it was found that Davison had won "North-West Passage" as best speaker from the floor. The motion having been defeated, Cotter and Grant I won the cake.

On Thursday, February 29th, the Junior Conservatory Orchestra, conducted by Miss Adamson, gave us a concert. They played pieces by Mozart, Mendelssohn and others. We heard also some delightful Scotch tunes. Miss Margaret Sims sang for us excellently and was accorded much applause. We appreciate very much this visit and thank Miss Adamson sincerely.

On April 6th Colonel Dan, who now lives in Aurora, gave us a stirring lecture on the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. He told us the history of the Force and interspersed many exciting stories in his enjoyable talk.

THE FORM SKITS

On Saturday, March 9th, certain members of the school entertained us in the Macdonald House dining room. We were first introduced to the radio play "Star Bright" of the dauntless hero type, put on by the third form. Then the fourth form presented "The Highwayman" as its masterpiece. The fifth form put on a representation of what might happen on the last night of term but doesn't. The upper sixth, represented by Hamilton, Davison and Frost, put on an entertaining but not wholly original skit about happenings in a moving picture theatre. However, the best show of the evening was put on by the lower sixth and was called "Frankenstein". McIntosh directed and played the part of Frankenstein, while Buchanan was well cast as the monster. This colossal, stupendous production (which cost a million dollars and took two years to make) easily won the prize.

On Saturday, March 16th, the Chrysler Corporation sent up the film "Wheels across Africa". We saw all the varying scenes of life from the Atlas Mountains to the Indian Ocean.

We hope to see many other such pictures depicting man's defiance of nature in transcontinental travelling.

On Saturday, May 4, Mr. David Ouchterlony, who is in charge of music at St. Andrew's, gave an enjoyable organ recital in the school chapel. The program began with a Bach Fugue and continued with a number of light and tuneful compositions including the French Rondo by Boellman, which was played by request. The program concluded with a Concert Etude by Bonnet, which contained many brilliant scale passages.

PROGRAM

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH CHOIR

On Saturday, June 1st, we had great pleasure in singing with the choir of Saint Andrew's Church, Toronto.

We first met at an informal sing-song in the Hall and thoroughly enjoyed ourselves. Having started with "Noah's Ark", Mr. Ouchterlony delighted us by using some male members of the choir as the keys of a piano. We were amazed at the depth of Mr. Atkinson's voice when he sang "The Big Bass Viol". We wound up with "Under the Spreading Chestnut Tree", to the joy of both the visitors and the boys.

Later we joined the choir in a more formal service in the Chapel. We started with "Lead me, Lord". Then we of the school sang some hymns, after which the choir sang a rendering of "Immortal, Invisible", by Thiman and Bach's "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring". The most delightful anthem was "Psalm 150" by Cesar Franck in which we both took part.

We sincerely hope that there will be at least one such meeting between the school and the choir each year. Not only is the service an inspiration to us but it also shows what well-trained voices sound like and this provides us with an example of the best in choir music.

On Saturday, June 8, we were favoured with a visit to the School by Mr. Macrae's brother who has just recently returned from a world cruise. Mr. Macrae brought with him some reels in technicolour showing most vividly and artistically the trip in its various stages. While the pictures were being shown Mr. Macrae helped greatly by giving us a running commentary on them. The spirit of adventure which prompted this trip was grasped by many who saw the views. Unfortunately we were not as lucky as Mr. Macrae.

The Senior School Play

"The Housemaster"

by IAN HAY

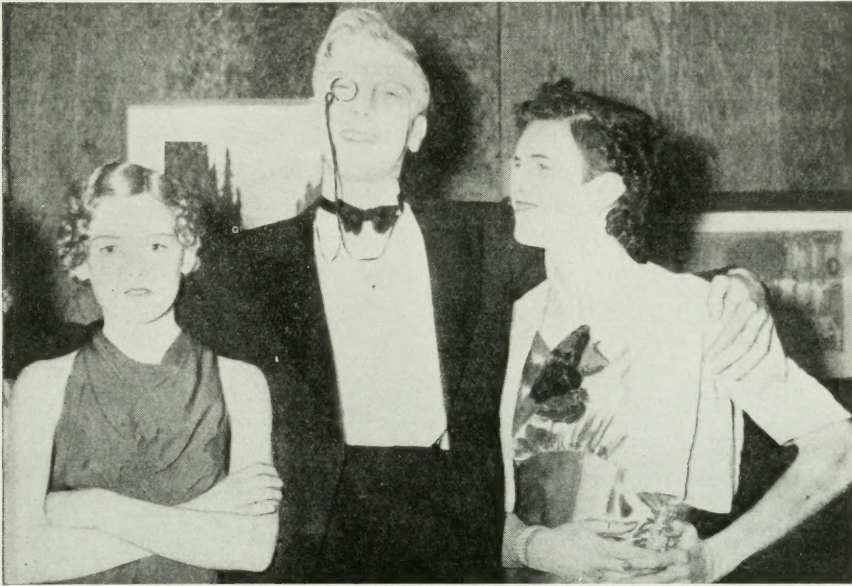

FOR various reasons, I have very grave misgivings as I sit down to write this critique of the Senior School Play. In the first place, I saw the Friday night performance and I understand that this was far surpassed not only by the following night's, but also by the one given in London to a large and appreciative audience. In the second place, I have no intention of writing a flattering eulogy which might make all the actors feel highly elated, but would achieve no really useful purpose. And then, finally, I do feel that as director of the Junior School play, I am in very great danger of being accused of "sour grapes". However, in spite of these misgivings, it was with considerable pleasure that I accepted the responsibility of writing this review of the play.

First of all, the play itself was, of course, a very difficult one to put on, depending as it does largely on the whimsicalities of a middle-aged man and the charming feminine directness of three girls from Paris. It is relatively easy to act the part of a very young man; it is also reasonably easy to act a very old man, but it is unbelievably difficult for a boy to act the part of a man of about fifty-five. Also it is a very hard thing for a boy to act the part of an attractive, vivacious young girl. The real essence of the play depended on the successful acting of these very difficult roles. It was not enough that they should "get by"; they had the supreme job of creating the atmosphere of the play. Naturally, on Friday night, Ian Hay's witty lines about school life, and, particularly about Headmasters, carried the play. The school audience demanded nothing more than to hear Stapells being caned and to watch a midnight feast going on out-of-bounds in the Housemaster's study. But this was not the real point of Ian Hay's delightful play. I personally cannot help feeling that there are many good plays which are more suitable for school production, plays that do not depend on the finer points of character acting or the captivating charm of young ladies.

One of the play's great advantages is that all the scenes take place in the Housemaster's study. This set was a very fine one indeed. The oak panelled walls looked absolutely genuine and the doors worked perfectly. The furniture was very well chosen and the fireplace was a masterpiece. It seemed a pity that entrances through the terrace doors had to be so slow on account of the desk being in the way. Would it not have been possible to replace the large sofa with a single armchair, and thereby make more room for the desk to be moved over, and, incidentally, give the audience a better view of the fireplace? It seemed to me that the set of the professional production was copied just a little too slavishly instead of changes being made to adapt the set to the inconveniences of a very small stage. The lighting throughout was good.

Now for a word about the make-up and costumes. On the whole, both were highly satisfactory. To my mind, however, the Housemaster, himself, was a little too young, especially when compared with his colleague, Mr. Hastings. I thought Chris' make-up showed distinct signs of wear as the performance went on, although at the beginning it was one of the best.

The girls in general were excellent and the wigs were completely convincing. Ellen, in respect of make-up and costume, was perfect. The girls' dresses were magnificent, although I do not think the play was intended as a dress parade. I found myself actually more interested in Rosemary's dresses than I was in Rosemary! Button's dresses appealed to me as being exactly right. Barbara Fane's hat in the first scene hardly seemed to be quite smart enough for an attractive lady, just returned from Paris. One thing I would like to know is why Victor Beamish never did his jacket up? Surely a man who prided himself on being a "lady-killer" would make the attempt once in a while to look smart.

And so, we come to the acting itself. Clarkson I, as Donkin, the Housemaster, was very good. His part was very long and he did well to carry it without any noticeable promptings. He might have been able to work in a few more middle-aged mannerisms and shown a little more animation in the exciting moments of the play, if he hadn't been weighed down by the sheer length of his part. McIntosh, as the bumptious sports master, made the character a little bit unnecessarily unpleasant. But perhaps my judgment is influenced here to some extent by the interpretation given to the part in the professional London production, which seemed to me to be just right. Mr. Tottenham, as Hastings, had a part which suited him exactly. Cotter, as Barbara Fane, was excellent. Mulock, as the cheeky little girl, Button, was very good indeed. I liked particularly his opening lines which were given when his mouth was still crammed full of apple. Both he and Cotter got into their very difficult parts and really acted, which, after all, is ninety-nine per cent. of the point of dramatics. Goodeve, as Chris, did a wonderful piece of acting in his valiant attempt to make us forget his bodily size. Grant, as Rosemary, looked wonderful, but he hardly acted with enough confidence. But it must be remembered that he was only asked to take the part some ten days before the performance. Good, as Ellen, the maid, gave one of the outstanding performances of the play. Wilson, as the Headmaster, was very well cast for the part. The lines of the play hardly make any attempt to portray the character in any detail, it is little better than a caricature. Wilson made the part quite human and convincing. Davison, as the Chairman of the Governors, was a little bit slow and deliberate. A comedy must always maintain its speed, otherwise it rapidly becomes boring. Dickie, as Old Crump, gave a completely satisfactory performance, although it was confusing to see him at one moment on the stage, and, at the next, sitting spellbound in the audience. The other members of the cast were good without being particularly outstanding. Their chief fault was a failure to act themselves right into their parts and a tendency to be just a little stiff and slow on the stage. However, acting experience alone will right this shortcoming of all beginners.

Finally, may I congratulate the director and his cast on putting on a very good evening's entertainment. The play went off with a fine swing, there were no long waits between scenes and the Friday night audience thoroughly enjoyed itself.

On Saturday, 27th April, the whole cast, through Mr. J. D. Good's generosity, journeyed down to London to give a performance of the play in the London Life Assurance Company's auditorium, kindly lent to us for the occasion. The entire proceeds from the sale of tickets, some $350, were used for the Crippled Children's Work of the London Rotary Club.

The Cadet Corps

For the past few years it has been the policy of the school to hold two church parades in Toronto a year, one in the autumn, the other in the spring term. Due to the unrest at home and abroad this year, it was seen fit not to send the corps to Toronto for its spring parade. As a result most of the activities of the corps have centred around periodical practices for the band and instruction for aspiring members, together with various shooting competitions provided by the school and the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association. Over five thousand rounds of ammunition were fired and many brilliant marksmen were discovered. Over twenty awards were won by the boys and each award called for various degrees of accuracy ranging from a score of 75 to 97 out of a possible 100—from a total of ten targets for each award.

A Sporting Rifle Club was formed among the senior boys and they fired in a competition which stipulated the use of sporting rifles, different targets, etc. Three of these boys won the gold award which called for ten targets of 98-100.

The annual school competitions were keenly contested and the results were as follows:

THE DOMINION OF CANADA RIFLE ASSOCIATION COMPETITIONS

The Junior Competition

Bronze Pin, 75-100: Meredith, Ramsey, Ingraham, Fraser, Cossitt, Pooler, Stapells, Morris, Gourlay.

Silver Pin, 88-100: Goodeve, Gourlay, Morris.

Sporting Rifle Competition

Bronze Pin, 80-100: Goodeve, Davis I, Reid, Davison.

Silver Pin, 93-100: Goodeve, Reid, Davison.

Gold Pin, 97-100: Goodeve, Reid, Davison.

The School Competition

I.O.D.E. Rifle: Reid.

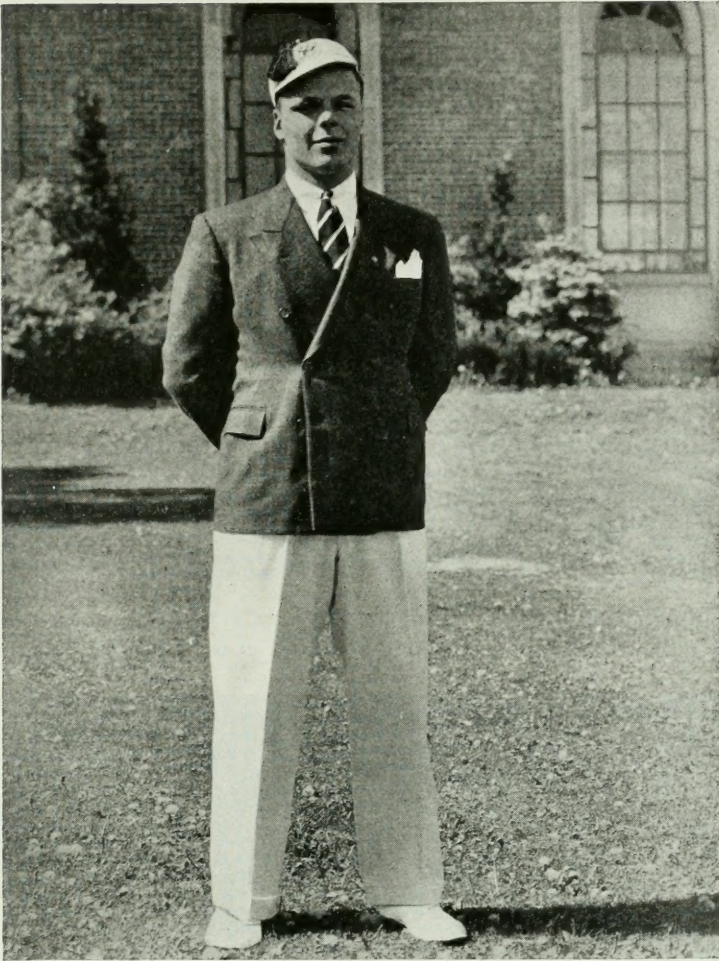

Strathcona Medal: Goodeve.

Christie Cup: Morris.

The Lawrence Crowe Medal: Fraser I.

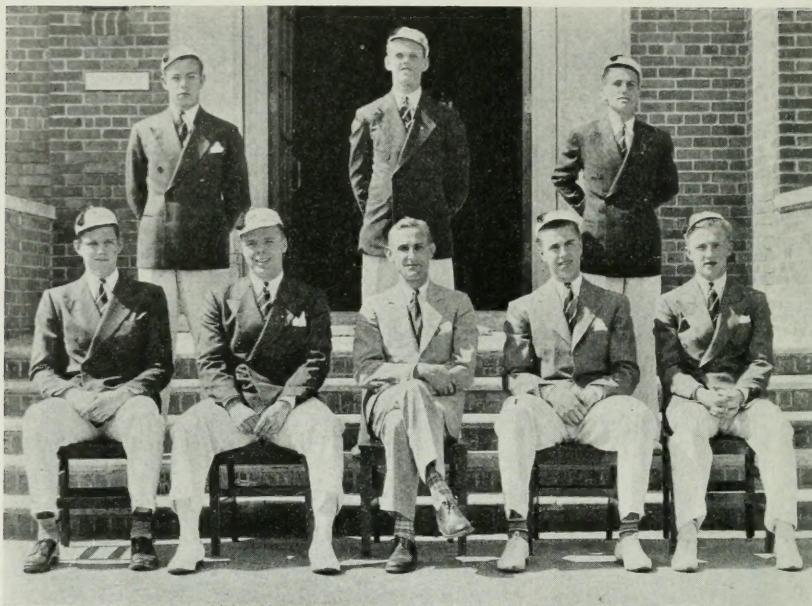

Gordon Thorley Medal: Ramsey.

It is to be hoped that next year even more boys will avail themselves of the excellent equipment that is provided by the school and government in this branch of our cadet training.

HEAD PREFECT
B. W. ALLESPACH

With sincere regret we bid farewell to Bruce after his honourable record extending over a period of nine years at the school. During the years here he has held many responsible posts and has discharged the duties attached to them faithfully and with distinction. This year he captured the championship football team and was elected an Hon. Associate of the Royal Life Saving Society. He was also a first line player on the Senior Hockey team and second in command of the Cadet Corps.

WE have had a good team this year, but it has not been well balanced. We have depended too much on Forbes. A glance at the statistics will show how well he has shouldered this responsibility. He is first in the bowling (by a tremendous margin), first in the batting and second in catches; moreover, he has been an able and astute captain, who is particularly adept at placing the field. Clarkson, Diver, Chipman and Butler have batted very well this season, while Kilmer has borne his bowling load excellently. Diver has kept wickets well throughout the season. We have played 8 games and won 6 of them. A pre-season game, in which Butler batted very well, was lost to Yorkshire.

ST. ANDREW'S vs. GRACE CHURCH

On a sunny day with a light wind St. Andrew's were sent in to bat on a damp wicket when Forbes lost the toss. MacPherson and Chipman, the opening batsmen were cautious, and after three runs had been scored in the first over three successive maidens were bowled. However, runs were just beginning to come easily, and MacPherson had hit a lovely four, when Chipman was caught off the slow bowler Smith. The score read 14:1:6. Smith failed to intimidate Clarkson, the incoming batsman, who hit him for a two and four off his first two deliveries. But the slow bowler had his revenge when he bowled MacPherson in his next over. Wilson did not stay long and Butler came in. Both Clarkson and Butler began to attack the bowling but after they had added nineteen runs (13 in one over from Smith) both fell in one over from Simmonds. Clarkson's innings of 21 was distinguished by strong drives and hooks. Wickets now fell with depressing regularity although Forbes reached double figures. A last wicket stand by Kilmer and Diver brought the total up to 95. Kilmer drove forcefully. Forbes and Kilmer shared the attack when Grace Church came in. Forbes soon had the openers, Manton and Richardson in difficulties, and, after Richardson was run out, he disposed of Manton, Jennings and Simmonds in two overs. This brought Ashburner and Williams together. Wilson replaced Kilmer at the Aurora end and broke this partnership when it had yielded 17 runs by bowling Williams with a leg break. The remaining wickets fell quickly and St. Andrews' won by 40 runs with five minutes left to play. Forbes' bowling was excellent.

ST. ANDREW'S vs. DENTONIA PARK

Dentonia Park won the toss and decided to bat first. Kilmer and Forbes opened the bowling, and in Forbes' second over, with the score only 8, he clean bowled three batsmen. Kilmer disposed of Gallagher, with the first ball of his next over, well caught by Chipman in the slips. Four wickets down for eight runs! More disasters followed and six wickets were down for 24. Then Back and Havrot made a partnership of 39 runs. Back hit vigorously even against Forbes. Davis replaced Kilmer and Clarkson replaced Forbes in an attempt to stem the tide, and it was one of Clarkson's leg breaks which forced Havrot back onto his wicket. Back was soon run out for 32, and the remaining wickets fell quickly. Dentonia's total was 78. Chipman and McPherson opened quietly for St. Andrew's. However both were playing confidently and had put on 21 when Chipman was caught at the wicket on the leg side. Then Clarkson and McPherson had a good partnership of 22 runs. Clarkson batted forcefully while MacPherson defended. Eventually the latter was bowled for a valuable 13. Then a collapse set in and 7 wickets were down for 68 including that of Clarkson who had scored 19. However Thiele and Diver put on 17 and we passed the Dentonia total. Our final score was 85 for 9. Rees bowled excellently for Dentonia.

ST. ANDREW'S vs. TORONTO C.C.

Rea and Dodge opened for Toronto but Forbes and Kilmer disposed of them for 14 runs. Then Gunn and Loney made an excellent partnership which yielded 47 runs before Forbes beat and bowled Gunn with a beautiful ball. Forbes was bowling excellently but no one else seemed to be in form. Loney batted finely with changing partners and was not out until he had made 57. Toronto's final total was 131 for 6 wickets. St. Andrew's innings was one long disaster. However Butler and Diver batted well with little support from the others. Butler hit very hard and scored his 24 quickly. Blair took five wickets for Toronto and continually had our batsmen in difficulties.

Toronto C.C.—131 for 6 (Loney 57, Gunn 23, MacLean 14, Forbes 5 for 36 in 12 overs, Kilmer 1 for 29).

ST. ANDREW'S vs. ALPHA DELTA C.C.

St. Andrew's batted first and made a poor start, having 2 wickets down for 11 runs. Then Wilson and Clarkson made a stand of 26 runs. Wilson hit his wicket playing back to Henderson and was out. His 13 was slow but valuable. Then Clarkson was out for a forcing innings of 20. This brought Forbes and Butler together and these two proceeded to attack the bowling. Both drove and pulled forcibly. Butler hit 3 successive fours. After tea Butler was bowled, and although Forbes stayed in a little longer to score 37, wickets fell steadily until all were out for 106. When Alpha Delta batted Forbes and Kilmer were in deadly form and between them they disposed of our opponents for 28 runs. Forbes seemed unplayable and Kilmer forced the batsmen to the defensive.

ST. ANDREW'S vs. KAPPA ALPHA

Kappa Alpha batted first to the bowling of Forbes and Kilmer. Forbes was again in tremendous form while Kilmer kept a beautiful length. Only Howard was able to play this remarkable bowling but Forbes eventually bowled him for 18. The Kapps total was only 33. St. Andrew's began their innings disastrously and 3 wickets were down for 5 runs. However, Clarkson and Forbes came to the rescue with a partnership of 21. Nevertheless 6 wickets were down with the score only 38. When Graham, together with Forbes, put on 60 runs. Graham batted carefully but well and might have made more than 15 but for a lack of speed between wickets. Forbes was in fine form. He batted cautiously toward the start of his innings but scored more quickly as he approached his 50. Our final total was 116 for 8.

ST. ANDREW'S vs. TRINITY COLLEGE SCHOOL

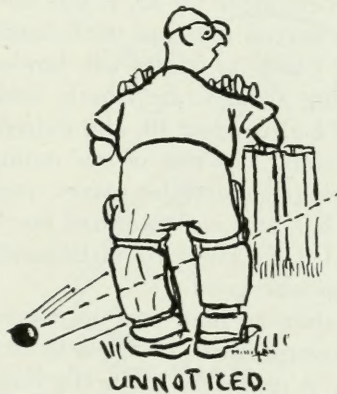

St. Andrew's won the toss and elected to bat first. Cobban and MacPherson opened to Finley and Duggan. With the score only 7, Finley caught and bowled Cobban on a scooped forward stroke. This brought Forbes in at number 3. He was in fine form. He scored rapidly and yet hardly seemed to be hitting. McPherson defended at the other end and the partnership provided 31 runs before the latter was caught at mid-off while Lambert was bowling. His 9 runs were worth more than their face value. Clarkson came and went, and then Chipman and Forbes settled down to a good partnership. Just before lunch Forbes reached his 50 out of 65 amid much applause. At lunch he was 58 not out. After lunch a collapse occurred. Duggan accounted for three wickets in one over, including Chipman, Forbes and Wilson, while Higgins claimed Butler's wicket. Chipman's 8 was a useful innings for with Forbes he put on 35 runs for the 4th wicket. Graham scored 8 and stayed in while 22 runs were put on but the big innings now was Diver's. His 19 not out was a mixture of big hitting and cautious defending. Our final total was 116, which was very unsatisfactory considering that we were 78 for 3 at lunch. Indeed our score would have been poor indeed but for Forbes' 58.

T.C.S. began their innings disastrously and 4 wickets were down for 5 runs, two to Kilmer and two to Forbes. However, Parr and Pochon made a stand, hitting the loose balls fiercely. When Pochon fell to Forbes, Somerville continued the good work. At tea the score was 65 for 6 and Parr was still in, batting very forcefully. Butler, who had taken Somerville's wicket had a loose spell and was replaced by Wilson who had Parr well stumped by Diver. Now the wickets fell rapidly, and T.C.S. were all out for 77. In this game Diver's wicket-keeping was exceptionally fine.

ST. ANDREW'S COLLEGE vs. U.C.C.

Forbes won the toss and decided to bat first. Forbes and Clarkson opened together for the first time and both began to bat beautifully. Their driving, and placing to leg was particularly good. Eventually when it was beginning to seem that they were set for the day, Forbes was run out. He had played careful but enterprising cricket. Then a collapse set in. Diver and Cobban were dismissed for ducks of successive deliveries by Beveridge, and Butler also fell in Beveridge's next over. Whereas the score had been none for 42, it was now 4 for 47. However Clarkson and Chipman stayed together until lunch. After lunch there were further disasters. Clarkson finally fell, bowled by the left-hander Hewitt, who was keeping an accurate length, and Graham fell to the same bowler. Clarkson had reached 40, and indeed had played remarkably well. He hit 4 fours. The rest of our innings was all Chipman. With constantly changing partners he played steadily and well. His was the last wicket to fall, and our total had reached 127. His 34 was scored out of 80. For U.C.C. Hewitt and Beveridge bowled very well. The U.C.C. fielding was also good.

U.C.C. batted less than an hour and only scored 27 runs. Forbes' bowling can hardly be overpraised. He took all 10 wickets in 10.5 overs at a cost of only 4 runs. A record for Little Big Four cricket and perhaps for Canadian cricket too! More deadly bowling can hardly be imagined. No one played him with any kind of confidence. He was virtually unplayable. Kilmer, at the other end kept the batsmen tied down also. By this win we tied for the Little Big Four championship with Upper Canada and Ridley.

ST. ANDREW'S C.C. vs. RIDLEY

The Ridley wicket was damp, and Forbes decided to put Ridley in. His choice seemed justified when Franks was caught at silly mid-off on the second ball of the game. Sunderlin and Drope seemed about to make a troublesome partnership but Kilmer bowled Sunderlin with a lovely ball. This brought McCrea in with Drope and together they played beautiful cricket. Drope was almost stumped twice and McCrea gave a few hard chances but in general they played flawless forceful cricket. Eventually Drope was caught at point off Forbes by Butler. It was a very difficult catch. Graves stayed for a little while but was caught by Forbes off Wilson whose leg-breaks were proving very expensive. Before lunch McCrea reached his fifty and in the last over of the morning he was l.b.w. to Forbes for 51. He hit very hard and watched the ball carefully. Wickets fell quickly after lunch to Forbes and Kilmer but a last wicket stand of 35 brought the score to 177. Kilmer bowled particularly well. He was very accurate.

Our batting collapsed in a depressing manner. Forbes batted well for 12 but the only stand was of 31 runs between Diver and Cobban. Both batted very cautiously but extremely well. They were in for an hour together. Robertson bowled fast-medium for Ridley and was very successful. We have no fast bowler on our team and this may explain our difficulty in playing him. Our final total was 74.

THE OLD BOYS GAME

On January 13th at Aurora the St. Andrew's first team played and won its first game of the season against the Old Boys, defeating them 5-4. The Old Boys opened the scoring with Findley's shot going in off a defender's stick. After some scrappy play, McClelland, assisted by Goodeve, levelled the score and shortly before the end of the period put St. Andrew's ahead, following a perfect pass from Shields.

The Saints were rather left out of things in the second period, when the Old Boys scored two goals, the first a hard drive by MacIntosh, the second a corner shot by Kilgour.

In the last period the Saints attacked hard, and after a scramble in front of the Old Boys' goal, McClelland added another goal to his bag. The Old Boys replied with a rush down the ice, which resulted in a score by Corson, putting the Old Boys ahead 4-3. The Saints were fighting hard now, continually sending long shots and keeping the Old Boys behind their blue line. Their efforts were rewarded when McClelland scored his and the team's fourth goal. Then, shortly before the end, Butler dashed through on his own and netted a high one to win the game for the College.

THE PICKERING GAME

On Saturday, January 27th, the first team drew 4-4 with Pickering after a hard-fought game. At the beginning of the first period Pickering rather dazzled our team with hard, snappy passing. Getting the better of this, though, the Saints pressed hard, and near the end of the period Gear opened the scoring with a shot between the goalie's legs.

The second period produced a brace of goals—five in all. Right at the start, Hall levelled the score with Creade assisting. Then, half-way through the period, McClelland, off a neat pass from Martin, put St. Andrew's ahead with a long shot. Pickering attacked hard, and within less than a minute scored two goals—the first by Perkin, who stole the puck from a Saint in front of our own goal, and the second by Gubermann, assisted by Perkin. Then, right at the end of the period, Gear raced through the defence and made the score 3-3.

The last period was one big thrill—fast attacks and shots fired from all angles. At 45.37, Perkins, after a scramble in front of our goal, neatly put Pickering ahead. The Saints became desperate, and, playing four forwards, sent in shot after shot. The play was really fast, mostly behind the Pickering blue line, but the Saints couldn't get the equalizing goal. After many Pickering breakaways which found the St. Andrew's defence playing up, Martin, three minutes from the end, scored to tie the game 4-4. There was no extra time.

ST. ANDREW'S vs. THE GROVE

On Wednesday, 31st January, The Grove defeated S.A.C. 3-1 at Aurora. The game opened with a lightning Grove attack which resulted in a goal by Frewer after less than ninety seconds of play. The Saints held their own for the rest of the period, but found the Grove attack fast and their passing good.

The second period opened as disastrously as the first, for after only twenty seconds Frewer had scored again. The Saints tried hard after this, but the lines failed to get going properly. Attacks were stopped too easily and passes intercepted by the fast Lakefield team, which always skated at top speed. J. G. McClelland was playing an excellent game in goal, where he had plenty to stop. S.A.C. ganging attacks, however, were testing out Herrold, the Grove goalie.

S.A.C. came on to the ice for the third period determined to win, and after a few minutes' play, Gear, who had been playing well throughout the game, scored on a pass from Butler. This encouraged the Saints, who for some time had five forwards in the Grove defence zone, and were playing more together. The Grove, however, still fresh, held the attacks scoreless and replied with dangerous breakaways, one of which, a few minutes from the end, resulted in a goal by Roberts. The final score was 3-1.

The Grove: Herrold, Carson, Foster, Harris, Frewer, Roberts, Potts, Langmuir, St. Remy.

THE KAPPA ALPHA GAME

On Saturday, 3rd February, the first team was defeated at Aurora 9-4 by Kappa Alpha. The play was wide open throughout the game. A brilliant goal by Cayley started Kappa Alpha off in the first period, and they maintained a comfortable lead until the end of the game. Butler scored three fine goals for St. Andrew's in the third period, and Gurton, both in attack and defence, played well. Cayley scored twice for Kappa Alpha, while Boeckh and Mills also played good hockey.

S.A.C. vs. PICKERING

At Newmarket, on Thursday, 8th February, the Saints turned in their best performance of the season to beat Pickering 6-4, after a hard, fast game. The whole team played a grand game, and outskated the larger Pickering side, who were inclined to use their weight too much.

Creade opened the scoring with a quick goal after less than a minute's play. This challenge quickened up the Saints, who kept Pickering behind their blue line and bombarded the goal for several minutes. After fast ganging attacks by both sides, Martin, taking the puck towards the end of the period, skated right through the Pickering team and behind their goal, and passed to Butler, who banged it in. To offset this, Meyers came through the St. Andrew's team and gave the puck to Gubermann, who made no mistake about putting his side ahead.

Two minutes after the start of the second period, Hampson passed out from the corner to Butler, who again levelled the score, this time, however, for only 30 seconds, as Creade netted another quick one. The game now developed into a series of quick rushes and ganging attacks by both sides, with the Saints continually shooting in from the blue line. There were several fierce mixups in front of the goals, and after one of these, Gear scored the equalizer on a pass from Hampson. The Saints were pressing hard now, and one minute from the end of the period, Martin sent in a perfect shot to put St. Andrew's ahead.

After 4 minutes of the last period, Brickenden took a long shot to further increase the Saints' lead. Tempers were getting frayed, but the Pickering team could afford no more penalties and the Saints were giving away no chances in the way of a five-man team. Hampson, on the boards, centred the puck and Gear scored the Saints' sixth goal. Pickering were tiring, but the Saints, in spite of furious attacks, were unable to score again. Then Pickering locked them up behind their blue line, and, four minutes from the end, scored their fourth goal through Perkin. Meyers, who had been playing an outstanding game for Pickering, then had to go off with a skate cut in his leg. Just before the end, Pickering strengthened their attack by taking off the goalie, but the St. Andrew's defence stood firm, to end the game with the score at 6-4.

It would be unfair to mention any player as outstanding on the St. Andrew's team as everyone was playing his best, with the result that the strong Pickering team was outskated and outpassed by a very fair margin.

Pickering: Rodgers, Meyers, Taylor (Franssi), Hall, McComb, Creade (Gubermann, Perkin, Williamson).

S.A.C. vs. T.C.S.

On Saturday, February 10th, S.A.C. defeated T.C.S. 4-1 at Port Hope. The Saints had lost the fire which gave them their victory over Pickering, but nevertheless played good, sound hockey.

Shortly after the start T.C.S. had a penalty for tripping. This was the signal for a series of attacks by S.A.C. which kept T.C.S. behind their blue line, desperately trying to break away. At last Gear opened the scoring on a pass from Hampson. After this the Saints were content to hang on to their lead, banging shots in from the blue line.

The second period opened with an S.A.C. attack. Suddenly there was a breakaway, and at 1.20 Cayley scored for T.C.S. The Saints again attacked hard. The passing was really good now, but it seemed as though the Saints didn't consider the goal worth shooting at, for all the attacks came to nothing. Then, fifteen minutes after the beginning of the period, Martin rushed down the ice on one of his dangerous solo attacks. Going right through the whole T.C.S. team he finished up in front of the goal to give the goalie no chance at all with a shot that at last put the Saints ahead again. S.A.C. attacked hard once more, and two minutes from the end of the period, Hampson took a shot. The puck hit the boards behind the goal, rose up the netting and bounced over in front of the goal to Butler, who gratefully accepted this gift goal.

The third period opened with strong T.C.S. attacks, which became more intense when S.A.C. had a man off the ice. The defence stood firm, however, although the forwards were finding difficulty in getting together. Martin made several of his speedy rushes, but no goals were forthcoming. Towards the end of the period when the Saints were again short-handed, Gear intercepted a pass on his blue line. The T.C.S. defence were playing well up, and was unable to stop Gear's quick attack, which gave the goalie no chance. The game ended with T.C.S. attacking hard, but to no avail.

S.A.C. vs. LAKEFIELD

On Wednesday, February 14, S.A.C. played their return game with Lakefield at Lakefield and won 6-4. The teams were very evenly matched and the battle was hard fought all the way.

In the first period Lakefield started off by getting two quick goals, the marksmen being Harris and Langmuir. Butler, however, on a beautiful rush, scored S.A.C.'s first goal of the game. Near the end of the period Harris scored his second goal on a pass from Freuer making the score 3-1 for Lakefield.

Just after the second period started Butler on another solo rush scored his second goal of the game to put S.A.C. back in the running. A few minutes later Shields banged in the tying goal on a lone rush. The period ended with the score 3-3.

Midway through the third period Gear put S.A.C. ahead by scoring on a fine pass from Hampson. However, Lakefield were not to be downed and a few minutes later, Roberts tied the score on a solo rush. The period ended with the score tied 4-4.

Just after the overtime started, Martin rushed up and passed to McClelland who scored to put S.A.C. ahead 5-4. As the overtime drew to a close, Butler, who was the star of the game scored again on a solo rush making the score 6-4 for S.A.C. and the game ended with the score still 6-4.

The stars for S.A.C. were Butler, Martin, Shields and McClelland. For Lakefield they were Freuer, Harris, Robarts and St. Remy.

St. Andrew's: Bryan; Martin, Allespach; Gurton, Shields, McClelland I. Substitutes: Butler, Hampson, Brickenden, Gear, McPherson, Robson.

Lakefield: Herold; Carson, Foster; Freuer, Harris, Robarts. Substitutes: Morris, Vaughan, St. Remy, Langmuir, Potts.

S.A.C. vs. T.C.S.

On Wednesday, February 21st the Saints played a disappointing game to tie T.C.S. 3-3 at Aurora. The passing was poor and, except for Martin's rushes, there was little life in the team.

The first period opened with the Saints very overconfident. They fiddled around, and were justly rewarded when Duggan, assisted by Finley and Cayley, opened the scoring for T.C.S. Gear replied with a goal scored from just inside the blue-line, and a few minutes from the close of the period McClelland put the Saints ahead following a mix-up in front of the goal.

In the second period there were repeated rushes by the Saints, but they came to nothing, and on a breakaway, which occurred a minute from the end of the period while St. Andrew's was short-handed, Duggan scored again.

T.C.S. went ahead six minutes after the start of the third period when Duggan scored his third goal. The Saints became desperate, which made their shooting worse. Martin made grand rushes, but the T.C.S. defence held firm until Shields scored near the end of the period. Overtime was called, but there was no further score, largely due to Bryan, in goal for the Saints, who played an excellent game.

S.A.C. vs. U.T.S.

On Wednesday, February 28th, St. Andrew's beat U.T.S. 3-2 after a hard, well-played game at Newmarket. The first period was scoreless with St. Andrew's playing slightly better on the sticky ice. The second period opened with fast rushes by both teams. At one time the Saints had U.T.S. bottled up behind their blue line and were banging scores of shots at the goal, but it was not until half way through the period that they scored. Martin, taking the puck behind his blue line, skated through the U.T.S. team to knock the puck between the goalie's legs. Three minutes later he repeated his performance, this time scoring with a cross shot that gave the goalie no chance.

U.T.S. were fighting hard the third period, and it was all the Saints could do to hold them in check. There was a breakaway, however, and Murray, assisted by Allan and Ball, opened the scoring for U.T.S. Shortly afterwards Creston took a long shot from the blue line; the puck bounced off the goalie's hand, and the Saints once more had a two-goal lead, which they quickly lost when Falconer scored for U.T.S. The Saints spent the rest of the game grimly hanging on to their slender lead, which they deservedly maintained to the end.

THE SECOND TEAM

The Seconds this season were the only undefeated hockey team in the school, winning every fixture under the able captaincy of Reid, the best shot in the school (with a rifle). This brilliant aggregation of hockey stars managed to steal the verdict from Aurora High School 2-1, thus beginning and concluding their undefeated and untied record.

THE THIRD TEAM

This season the Thirds were fairly successful, drawing one and winning three games out of six. There were six members of last year's third team who were still young enough to play again this season, and with the addition of several of last year's lower school stars and two new boys, Mr. Tottenham had plenty of good material. Colours were awarded to the whole team, including Robson.

The scores of the games were:—

S.A.C. BASKETBALL

The basketball team this year had a highly successful season. Led by the defensive and offensive playing of Grass, Gourlay and Davis, and the inspired coaching of Mr. Millward, the team reached the finals in the Toronto District Championship. Unfortunately these two final games put an end to our long string of victories, and St. Andrew's became runner-up to the strong Northern Vocational team. Out of the 12 games played, S.A.C. won 10 and lost 2, while scoring a total of 700 points to 277 scored by our opponents. The whole team worked exceptionally hard throughout the long season, and every member deserves much credit for his co-operation and perseverance. At the end of the season first team colours were awarded to Grass, Gourlay, Davis, Hampson and Hamilton.

S.A.C. vs. AURORA HIGH SCHOOL AT S.A.C.

The first game of the season was an exhibition one against Aurora High School. The teams started very evenly and it was not until well on in the first half that S.A.C. started to have a slight edge in the play, this half ending with the score 18-8. At the beginning of the second half the home team still seemed to be worried by the very rugged play of their visitors and had great difficulty in scoring the 27 points which brought victory.

S.A.C. vs. U.C.C. AT U.C.C.

On the 22nd of January the St. Andrew's team journeyed to Toronto to play Upper Canada in the first official game of the season; this game, incidentally, was also the first official one to be played in the new U.C.C. gymnasium. Before the start of the game the Upper Canada headmaster, Mr. McDermott, gave a speech, and then started the game off. The much more experienced St. Andrew's team immediately took the lead and at half-time the score was 31-10 in our favour. The second half continued in a similar manner, giving the Saints a decisive victory of 45 points. Gourlay was particularly outstanding for S.A.C., scoring a total of 27 points, while Busk and Manning played a sterling game for U.C.C. The final score was 56-11.

S.A.C. vs. PICKERING COLLEGE AT PICKERING

This game against Pickering was our second league game of the season, and the School team had very little difficulty in overpowering the staunch opposition of Pickering. The first half showed some wonderful defensive work by Grass and Hamilton, allowing our opponents to collect only 4 points, but in the second half the game opened up considerably, and Davis and Gourlay took this opportunity of sinking 10 and 11 field goals respectively. Due to the very fast game there were 21 penalties handed out by Referee Mr. Jackson. The final score of the game was S.A.C. 59, Pickering 19.

S.A.C. vs. U.T.S. AT S.A.C.

A week later, on February 6th, St. Andrew's were hosts to the very formidable U.T.S. team, who were our conquerors of the previous year. However, after a very fast and clean game, the tide turned and S.A.C. emerged winners by the score of 46-20. The game opened very slowly with both teams concentrating on their defence rather than on their offence. Hence the score at the end of the first half was S.A.C. 20, U.T.S. 11. But as the second session got under way, the S.A.C. team, led by centre Bill Gourlay, started a furious attack which resulted in a gain of 29 points to our opponents' 9 points. Gourlay, who scored a total of 24 points, was outstanding for the Saints, while Davis and Grass also played well. Van Wyck, Grieve and Coyle were the most impressive of the Toronto squad.

S.A.C. vs. T.C.S. AT T.C.S.

This exhibition game against our Little Big Four rivals, T.C.S., ended in a personal triumph for our consistent centre, Bill Gourlay, who collected a total of 41 points out of the team's 58 points. The game was very rough and dirty with few penalties being awarded to either side. St. Andrew's, however, took an early lead and retained it until the final whistle announced the end of the game. Svenningson and Robarts were the most impressive players of the Trinity squad, while the defence of Grass was outstanding. The final score was S.A.C. 58, T.C.S. 16.

S.A.C. vs. U.C.C. AT S.A.C.

In the return game with U.C.C. at Aurora the St. Andrew's team proved themselves to be far superior to their rivals. Although U.C.C. had to play without their main attacker, Busk, they put up a stern resistance to the perpetual oppression of the Saints. At the end of the first half the score was S.A.C. 54, U.C.C. 6, but in the second half the game slowed down considerably and Davis and Hampson began to sink baskets from all angles. The game finally ended in a victory for St. Andrew's by the score of 88-11. Davis and Hampson were the best for the Saints, while Sanders did some great work for Upper Canada.

S.A.C. vs. PICKERING AT S.A.C.

A week after the U.C.C. game, St. Andrew's played their return game with Pickering at home, and almost succeeded in scoring their first century of the season. The game was very fast and rough, but the Saints were far superior over their rivals, and by half-time the score was 45-13 in favour of S.A.C. However, the second half was featured by some brilliant defensive work by Grass and Hamilton, who allowed Pickering to add only 4 more points to their half-way total. The high scorers of the game were Gourlay (36), Davis (26), Hampson (21), and Bishop of Pickering who collected 11 of the team's 17 points. The final score was S.A.C. 96, Pickering 17.

S.A.C. vs. AURORA HIGH SCHOOL AT S.A.C.

This game with Aurora was very closely contested, with St. Andrew's doing the greater part of the attacking. The Aurora guards had a very busy afternoon, but they set up a very stern opposition, allowing the Saints to gather only 40 points. Gourlay was high scorer of the game with 16 points, while Sheridan played a creditable game for the losers. The final score was S.A.C. 40, Aurora 18.

S.A.C. vs. U.T.S. AT U.T.S.

On Tuesday, February 27th, the team journeyed to Toronto to play U.T.S. in our final league game. The game was much more closely contested than the score indicates; but the Saints played beautifully and out-scored their opponents by 45 points. In the first half both teams concentrated on their defence and the score was 30-11 in favour of S.A.C. at the interval. However, Gourlay and Davis got going from the start of the second half, and ended up by scoring 29 and 14 points, respectively. Hampson, Grass and Hamilton were also outstanding, while Siebert and Van Wyck did the major part of the U.T.S. scoring. Final score—S.A.C. 75, U.T.S. 30.

S.A.C. vs. T.C.S. AT S.A.C.

Although St. Andrew's had a decided edge on the play, the Trinity boys did not fail to offer a continual resistance throughout the 40 minutes of playing time. Gourlay, the S.A.C. centre, scored 36 points, while Davis with 18 and Hampson with 15 points helped considerably in mounting up the huge total of 88 points. Robarts of T.C.S. scored 8 of the losers' 19 points, and turned in an excellent performance. Final score S.A.C. 88, T.C.S. 19.

S.A.C. vs. NORTHERN VOCATIONAL AT S.A.C.

After winning their division, St. Andrew's got a bye into the Toronto and District Championship. In the first of a two-game series with Northern Vocational, the Saints lost by 18 points in a game which started off very evenly. At the end of the first half the score was S.A.C. 21, N.V. 28. But the superior man-power and passing plays of the Toronto squad began to tell on the tired Saints, who were unable to prevent N.V. from piling up another 30 points to their 19. Gourlay was high scorer of the game with 19 points, while Pike (11), Cunwake (11) and Macdonald (9) were the high scorers for Northern Vocational. Final score S.A.C. 40, N.V. 58.

S.A.C. vs. NORTHERN VOCATIONAL AT NORTHERN VOCATIONAL

The return game with Northern Vocational started off with an 18-point deficit for the Saints. The game started off very slowly, with neither team doing any scoring during the first four or five minutes of play. Then the Nor. Vocs. got going with their tricky passes and by the end of the first half they were leading by the score of 26-6. Cunwake and Goodman were high scorers for Northern Vocational with 12 points each, while Grass and Davis each collected 10 points for St. Andrew's. The final score of the game was S.A.C. 27, N.V. 44, and the final score of the round, S.A.C. 67, N.V. 102.

THE ORILLIA DISTRICT ONTARIO CHAMPIONSHIP MEET

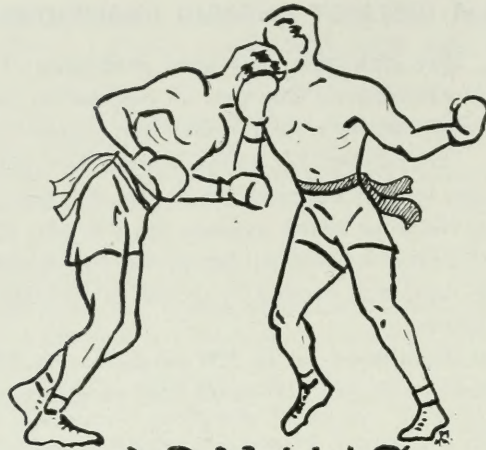

On Saturday, May 25th, the track team, consisting of ten boys, journeyed to Lake Couchiching to take part in the district meet. The team did exceptionally well, earning a total of fifty-four points—twenty-five more than last year. The number of points earned by each school is not announced, but we seemed definitely to be in the lead. Hamilton did very well, winning his three senior events—the 100 yds., 220 yds., and the high jump, and O'Brian had a good day in the Junior class, winning the 220 yds. and long jump and coming in second in the 100 yd. dash. The results were as follows:—

Senior events: Hamilton—1st in 100 yards, 1st in 220 yards, 1st in high jump; Buchanan—2nd in 100 yards, 2nd in 220 yards; Clarkson—2nd in long jump.

Intermediate events: Sabiston—1st in high jump, 2nd in shot put; Hendrie—1st in 100 yards; Ballon—2nd in 880 yards; Jolliffe—3rd in 100 yards.

Junior events: O'Brian—1st in 220 yards, 1st in long jump, 2nd in 100 yards.

Macdonald House

It is hard to believe that we have come to the end of another school year. Time certainly never drags in the Junior School. The new boys at the beginning of the year are no longer new: they are fully initiated members of the House. As we look back, we feel that the year has been a fine one in all respects. Every boy in the House has taken his part in the various sports and hobbies. We are looking forward to another good year and we feel confident that our teams will maintain the high standard that was set this year.

We are all very sorry that Mr. Macrae will not be with us next year. Since he came to the House four years ago, he has contributed a great deal to the making of many fine hockey, rugby and cricket teams. We shall miss him greatly, but we do wish him the very best of luck in all his undertakings at Queen's and we are looking forward to welcoming him back in the fall of 1941.

We were very pleased and proud to hear of the appointment of Mr. O'Brian to the rank of Flight Commander in charge of the ground school at Eglinton and following this appointment to the Regina Flying School. We shall always follow with the greatest interest the career of our Master-in-charge of last year. We do wish him and Mrs. O'Brian the very best of everything. We understand that one of the masters sends very special regards to Miss Patsy O'Brian.

The Lower School welcomes Mr. Hewitt who is to take over the duties of Mr. Macrae. Needless to say we shall all miss Mr. Macrae both in and out of the classroom but we feel certain that Mr. Hewitt will take on these responsibilities in a capable manner. It is our hope that both Mr. and Mrs. Hewitt will find their relations with the School happy ones.

This year Macdonald House showed excellent enthusiasm during the week of boxing and there were many exceptionally good fights. Possibly the most interesting fights were fought by the youngest members of the House, who never seemed to get tired and kept hitting every second of the rounds. However much credit must be given the older boys of the House, who for the most part, showed excellent style and very good all-round boxing.

THE MACDONALD HOUSE SPRING PLAY

The play chosen for presentation by Macdonald House this year was John Galsworthy's "Escape". Some general doubts were felt because we didn't know whether we could live up to the standards we had set ourselves last year. Also, we were following very closely upon the very successful production of "The Housemaster", presented by the Senior School. However, after the two productions of our play were over, we didn't feel that we had done anything of which to be ashamed. "Escape" is a completely different type of play from either "St. Joan" or "The Housemaster" and no invidious comparisons were necessary. The play deals with the escape of a convict from Dartmoor; it traces him through various episodes in his escape and leads up to his final capture by a village constable. The play is not a children's play and some members of our audience thought it was not particularly suitable for production by Macdonald House. We can only defend it on the grounds that it offered worth-while parts to boys ranging all the way from the Fifth Form to the First Form; that it had a simple, straightforward story; that it had a large and varied cast and that it offered considerable scope for the inventiveness of our stage manager.

The play opens on the Prison Farm where two convicts are discussing the prospects of escaping on a wet, foggy afternoon. Capt. Matt. Denant, played by Clarkson II, decides to make the attempt. Clarkson's acting throughout the whole play was quite outstanding. His lines were always delivered clearly and confidently—even if his cigar smoking was somewhat amateurish. He deserves a great deal of credit for taking such a long, difficult part without once faltering. His fellow convict, played by Leishman I, was not quite so good. He failed to maintain to the full extent the exciting tension of the escape from the Prison Farm.

The second scene was played in almost complete darkness. It consisted of two prison warders, Crawford and Hendrie II, picketing a road a few miles from the prison. Both took their parts well, although they were at a distinct handicap because they had to depend almost entirely on their voices to put over the scene.

Scenically the third scene stole the show. The lighting was brilliant enough to suggest a sunny afternoon and the willow tree looked very life-like in front of the light blue sky. The scene was opened by Park, playing the part of a retired judge. His performance was good with the exception of one bad lapse on the first night. Taylor and Booth, as Devonshire labourers, were both excellent. Taylor, who did not have to speak a line, obtained a laugh on every one of his appearances. Booth's accent and general appearance were so genuine that nobody laughed at him—except where they were supposed to! This was a great compliment to Booth. Brooke II made a very adequate farmer and Campbell, with two pigtailed over his shoulders, made a very convincing farmer's daughter. Finally, Hamilton III gave a very satisfactory performance as the village constable.

The fourth scene was the interior of a cottage: a latticed window added distinction to an otherwise very simple set. The chief parts in this scene were taken by Rapmund and Beverly who were two genteel maiden ladies. Unfortunately both their voices were a little weak and they found it a little difficult to get fully into their parts. Once again Clarkson gave a very straightforward, sensible interpretation of his part.

In the final scene, Crombie as the Parson was outstanding. He gave his part a quiet dignity and sincerity which it is sometimes all too difficult to obtain in a school play. The final climax was handled very well by all the actors. A special word of praise should go to Robinson who handled a small character part very well.

We would like to thank all the different people who lent us various properties for the production. Mrs. Griffiths did a wonderful job on the make-up and Mrs. Millward on the costumes. Mr. Macrae and Mr. Vrooman worked miracles on the small stage at their disposal. On neither night was the voice of the prompter heard, and so Garratt II can be proud of his hundred per cent. efficiency. In summing up, we would like to congratulate the cast, the director and all their helpers on a very fine evening's entertainment.

The Lower School Camera Club is proud to say that, although progress was by no means as great as it was last year under the experienced guidance of Mr. Ross, it has been able to teach some boys to develop and print their own pictures. Photography is a fine hobby because it not only teaches boys to use their brains and their hands, but it also produces a worth while record of the happenings of the school life. Eddis was president of the club and Heintzman II secretary.

The librarians would like to thank Mr. Weldon for his present of ten volumes from the works of Charles Dickens. They have been greatly appreciated by many of the boys and we know for a certainty that Weldon II has read David Copperfield from cover to cover. The Library has been doing a very good business this year. Over three hundred books have been taken out but we are a little ashamed that Edgar Rice Burroughs is the most popular author! We would like to thank Mr. Ives for the copies of Punch which he has put into the Library throughout the year. Once again we are in need of more shelves and we are hoping that some will be installed before the beginning of next term.

The record made in the Lower School ski race in 1938 by Hastings was broken this year by the first five contestants. This was a really remarkable feat. Beverly came first with an excellent record-breaking time of 35 minutes, 15 seconds. Congratulations Beverly for winning two years in succession. Second came Lowndes and third Hall. The snow conditions were very nearly perfect and the unusual depth of the snow made fence climbing very much easier than it usually is. We are wondering if Beverly will be able to do a Ski Race hat-trick next year.

This year brought forth in the Lower School many fine and strong swimmers. The Lower School collected a total of twenty-six awards. Sixteen boys received their Elementary Awards; a difficult task for small boys who have not yet developed their swimming. Ten boys won their Intermediate Award after much coaching from Mr. Griffiths. Many boys tried for their Bronze Medallion, but only three came through with first-class honours, these being McLeod, Lowndes and Hendrie. These boys received their award after much practising by themselves. Much credit goes to Mr. Griffiths and the instructors for this excellent performance.

My Journey to the Bottom of the Sea

F. M. HALL, Form III

IT was the month of July in the year 1950. We were visiting the Rock of Gibraltar. In the harbour were many boats among which was an odd looking ship with a strange apparatus on the deck. As we went to investigate we suddenly saw an old friend of ours. We asked who owned the ship. He replied that it was his and that he was going to try and reach the bottom of the Mediterranean with his equipment. He asked us to go along and we accepted.

On the fourth day out the captain let down the anchor and then prepared to let down the diving apparatus. It consisted of a bell-like car with many ropes attached. I was invited to go down and after some hesitation I accepted.

Half an hour later we were under the water and going steadily downwards. Suddenly we came to an abrupt stop. As we looked out the portholes we saw the wreck of an old battleship. It was fairly modern and looked like one used in the War of 1940. It had not been damaged much on the top but it had a gaping-hole on one side which indicated that the ship had been sunk by a torpedo. On the bow the name was still discernable. It was the Admiral Scheer. Moving very cautiously along the deck we came to the control tower where there was an open door. Slipping on diving suits we entered into the tower and continued on until we came to a trap door. It apparently led to the hold. Opening the door, the water rushed in, much to our surprise. Apparently this part of the ship was watertight. We quickly went in and closed the door again. It was a massive hold. The remains of the ammunition for the guns were still there. Emerging from the hold, we went on to the bridge and saw the remains of the instruments used to navigate the ship. Then we opened a door which led to another watertight room. Here to our horror we saw hunched over a table a skeleton of a man. In front of him was the ship's log which said that the Scheer was on its way to the Suez Canal to fight the British. It was hit by three torpedoes and sunk. The crew was all taken prisoner but the captain had gone down with his ship.

After emerging again to the surface we expressed our thanks for the novel experience and continued on our continental tour doubting if we would ever surpass this, our first major experience of a trip that was to review the various battlefields of the great struggle begun in 1939.

Adcock (watching the inspection of the Cadets)—“Sir, why do the officers keep saying ‘Common egg left worm’?”

“Wab”

P. C. CARRATT, Lower School

Wab is a bonny highlander,
A Scottish lad is he.
When he fights he's like a tiger,
When he's calm he's like the sea.

Wab sometimes is a bookworm,
At other times a sport,
He reads at eve', he reads at morn'
Books long as well as short.

In daytime he's a frisky horse,
A springer spaniel he,
He'll run around the tracker's course
As fast as any flea.

But when it comes to working,
Wab is on top you'll see,
He never does the shirking
Or is off on any spree.

Wab is a top-notch lad
As you may plainly see,
He's just a highland laddie
And will forever be.

Room No. “13”

C. CROMBIE, Upper II

“I HAVE done little travelling in my time and, as you know, I have led a fairly quiet and normal life, but I remember having a very strange experience about three years ago.” It was a tall, elderly man who spoke. He was standing before a blazing fire, and a number of men a little younger than himself were listening intently. They had been hunting all day and now, after returning to their camp and having had some supper, were spinning yarns.

Our elderly friend continued. “I was returning from a driving tour through Scotland with a friend of mine, Jack Corman. Our destination was London and with luck we would have made it that night but towards nine o'clock it began to rain—I have never seen a storm like that since.

“We crawled along in that storm for about ten minutes with the rain lashing against the windshield and the wind rising with a shriek and dying down again for a few seconds, only to rise again with twice as much force. Suddenly Jack spotted a house about two hundred yards from the road. We decided to see if we could take shelter in the house till the storm passed. We turned up the drive, which was badly kept, and there we abandoned the car and made a dash for the porch. As I got out of the car Jack jokingly said, ‘I think I'll take the gun with me in case we meet a ghost.’ We had bought the gun in a shop in Dundee. I have since forgotten the reason, I think it was one of those passing whims you occasionally have when you see some article for sale. It was a small Colt revolver.

“We knocked at the door but nobody answered. We knocked again, this time the door slowly creaked open. We walked in, then something almost knocked me over in its hurried exit through the door. Things were happening much too quickly to suit me, and I was rather glad we had brought the revolver. The hall we found ourselves in was very large, the walls were of oak panelling; in the centre a large chandelier hung from the ceiling and at the end of the hall was a large staircase. The place was apparently not equipped with electricity as we could find no switch. We were using flashlights. There were a number of rooms on each side of the hall and through these we cautiously went looking in every nook and corner. Every room was empty, and only about three of the rooms were furnished and these very scantily.

"Jack had started up the stairs and I was following when there was a sound at the other end of a hall. I turned the light in that direction disclosing a man. Then a gun went off; there was the shattering of glass; a scream that sounded as though it came from the room above and then silence. I bent over to pick my flashlight up at the same time calling to Jack to see if he were all right. There was no reply. I turned my light on the stairs but he had completely vanished. I then swung my light round to where I had seen the man. A broken mirror loomed up before me. I had obviously seen my own image reflected in the mirror. But then where had the shot come from? If Jack had shot the gun as I thought he had where was he now? And where had the scream come from?

"I was now thoroughly rattled! Here I was in a house where people disappeared into thin air and voices screamed, with nothing but a flashlight. What was I to do? I couldn't very well leave one of my best friends to his doom. Summoning all my courage I mounted those stairs at winged speed. I was never the sort of man who would like to find himself in a haunted house. I was even rather superstitious which made matters worse. At the top of the stairs I found another hall not unlike the one on the first floor. As I swung the flashlight around I noticed footsteps on the floor. I was now decidedly wishing we had never come near this house. It would have been all right if the owner of the footsteps and the owner of the scream had come out into the open. It was the deathly silence and the sudden disappearance of Jack that had put my nerves on edge.

"The rooms on this floor were better furnished than the ones on the first floor; they were also numbered. As I searched through each room I became more confident. After all what could happen to a man not more than fifteen miles from London? Maybe Jack was playing a practical joke on me. That would account for his remark about the ghost when we were getting out of the car. Then I came to a door that was locked. I shined the light on it. It was room number '13'. All my old fears came back, as I have said I was superstitious and this was enough to make me want to run as far away from the house as possible.

"However the thought that Jack might be on the other side of the door made me desperate. The door was not terribly heavy so I put all my weight against it and pushed. The door gave way with a crash. There was a scream and I landed flat on my face. I slowly arose with a light shining full in my face and a very cultured voice saying, 'Don't move or I will fire this gun.' Then the flashlight went out and whoever it was fell to the floor with a groan. Jack had hit him over the head from behind.

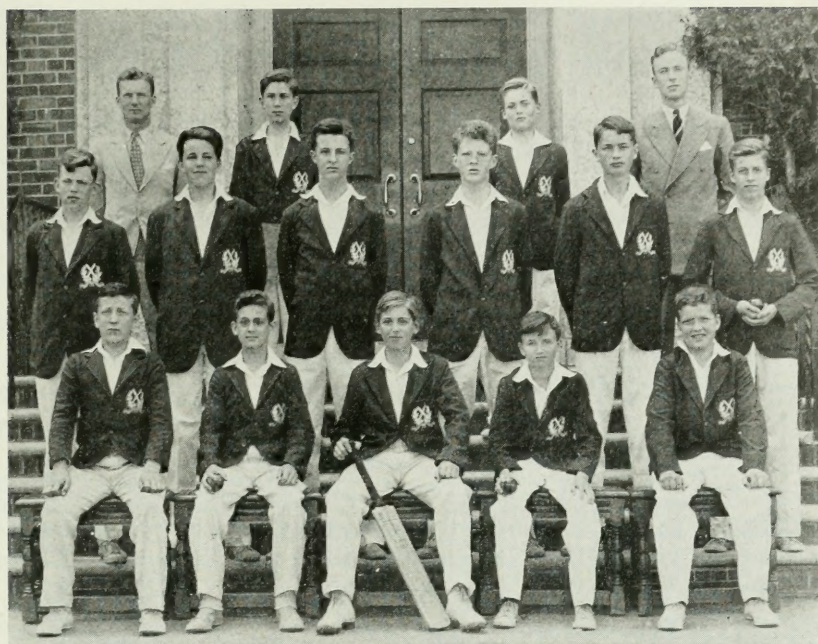

"When we had revived him with the help of a woman who was also in the room, they told us they had taken refuge in the house from the rain. They had thought that we were crooks or ghosts just as we had thought they were. When Jack had shot the gun at my image in the mirror the woman in the room above had screamed. Then the man had hit Jack over the head from behind and dragged him into room no. '13'."

"We all relaxed, some of us even went so far as to get out of our chairs and look about the room which had taken on a ghostly appearance caused by the shadows thrown by the fire. No one attempted to equal or better that story and the subject was changed as quickly as possible to one of a more soothing nature.

"MAYBE IT'S JUST A MIRAGE."

Because of the inclement weather which lasted throughout the entire season, cricket was not indulged in with the same vigour as in other years. Many practices had to be cut short due to rain and the grounds although well rolled were often unfit for the best of bowling and fielding. However, we did manage to play six games and out of that number we drew four, won one and lost one. In the game with Appleby we won away and drew at home. We were not so fortunate with Lakefield, losing at home and drawing away. In the games with U.C.C. and T.C.S. we drew on our home grounds.

Macdonald House Hockey

This season the hockey team won only one game, tied two and lost two. But figures cannot tell the whole story of a hockey team, and certainly they do not speak of the successful season we have enjoyed behind the scenes. The most gratifying aspect of the winter's play was the rapid improvement of the squad as a whole. Before the season had ended no fewer than twelve boys constituted our team, and apart from the first line, all players appeared to be of equal value.

McLeod, the captain, handled his team admirably. Always a tower of strength, his forceful rushes, hard shots, and strenuous back-checking made him the most reliable member of the team.

The awarding of colours was a problem, and the seven finally given certainly were justly deserved. They went to the first line of McLeod, Garratt and Franceschini, the regular defence of Booth and Hendrie II, and the two goalkeepers, O'Brian III and Grant II. Congratulations.

This team may look forward to a bright future. Many of the stalwarts will be with us again next year, and some for two and perhaps three years.

MACDONALD HOUSE vs. L.P.S. "FOURTEENS" AT AURORA

The first game of the year launched us into the season in high spirits. It was most encouraging to tie the hard skating Lakefield sextet with our team of young recruits.

The outstanding feature of the game was the ability of members of each team to make rink-length rushes and fail to beat the goalkeepers. In the first two periods Harris and Tilley of "The Grove", and Garratt II of St. Andrew's, made numerous spectacular rushes, but on each occasion their shot was easily taken by the goalkeeper. MacBrien, in the L.P.S. nets, and O'Brian of St. Andrew's, deserve much credit.

The only score in the first period came when Brooke II picked up a loose puck in the visitors' zone and beat MacBrien with a long shot. Lakefield evened the score in the second when MacLean circled wide around our defence and shot hard from the left boards. Grant, alternating with O'Brian in the Andrean nets, was unable to make a save.

Both teams showed a fiery determination to break the deadlock in the last period. McLeod, the Andrean captain, banged a back-hand shot past MacBrien to put Macdonald House in the lead, but Harris of "The Grove" replied with two quick goals and reversed the standing. Brooke's second counter was a timely one for St. Andrew's, tying the score 3-3 just a few minutes before the final bell.

L.P.S.—Goal, MacBrien; Defence, Dickson, Thompson; Forwards, Harris, McLean, Christie, Tilley, Perry, Onorato; Alternates, Wilkes, Langmuir.

S.A.C.—Goal, O'Brian III, Grant; Defence, Booth, Hendrie; Forwards, Franceschini, Garratt, Abbott, McLeod, Brooke II, Medland; Alternate, McKenzie.

MACDONALD HOUSE vs. CHRIST CHURCH AT AURORA

Once again it was our pleasure to receive Mr. Gerald Burch's hockey team; a pleasure greatly increased by one of the most exciting games of our season. The regular playing time ended with the score standing 5-all, and an extra ten minutes' overtime failed to break the deadlock, for each team added another goal to their credit.

Garratt of St. Andrew's opened the scoring on a solo rush, but our lead was soon swamped by three swift goals for the visitors. Smith and Tredgett combined twice to get their first two, and Wescott shot the puck off Booth's skate to get their third. Before the period had ended Franceschini and Medland had evened the score on passes from Garratt and McLeod.

St. Andrew's obtained their first lead early in the second period when Abbott scored single-handed. This lead was increased by Garratt, assisted by Franceschini. The teams seemed too evenly matched for this margin to remain, for soon Macdonald of Christ Church passed to Smith, who decreased the Andrean lead to 5-4.

A power play in the third period evened the score. Roddy, of Christ Church, banged a loose puck past O'Brian.

St. Andrew's took the lead in the overtime with Franceschini's goal, but were unable to maintain it. Tredgett replied with a lone rush from centre ice and a high shot to the corner of the net. This made the final score 6-6.

MACDONALD HOUSE vs. L.P.S. "FOURTEENS" AT LAKEFIELD,

The opening period of this game was close, and ended with each team having one goal to their credit. For St. Andrew's Franceschini scored on a pass from Abbott, and three minutes later Tilley of "The Grove" made a lone rush and evened the score.

St. Andrew's enjoyed another short lead in the second period, resulting from Lowndes' blue-line shot from the right wing. But before the period was over Harris and MacLean had combined twice to put Lakefield ahead 3-2.

Throughout the final period Lakefield's position was never in danger. The power of their drives in the attacking zone, and their strong shots showed no weakening. Both Tilley and Harris of "The Grove" were able to score before the Andreans made their next and last counter, this resulting from Hendrie's pass to Franceschini after carrying the puck from his own defence position. With one minute left to play Tilley scored again for the home team, bringing the final score to 6-3.

L.P.S.—Goal, MacBrien; Defence, Dickson, Thompson; Forwards, Harris, McLean, Christie, Tilley, Perry II, Onorato; Alternates, Wilkes, Langmuir.

S.A.C.—Goal, O'Brian III, Grant II; Defence, Booth, McLeod, Hendrie; Forwards, Franceschini, Garratt, Abbott, Medland, Lowndes, Clarkson; Alternate, McKenzie.

MACDONALD HOUSE vs. U.C.C. PREP. AT MAPLE LEAF GARDENS

It was the thrill of the season to play at the Gardens. No doubt more of a thrill than an advantage, for at the outset our players looked decidedly out of place. In the first period, with little thought towards the preservation of energy, we were able to hold U.C.C. to an even game except on one occasion when a powerful rush of the blue team ended with the puck hitting the goal post.

Scoring began in the second period when Spence broke away from the U.C.C. territory with his defenceman Gooderham. His pass to Gooderham left our goaler, Grant, with little chance to make a save. Two more goals followed in quick succession, both being scored by the home team's first forward line, which made their speedy attacks the highlight of the game. The first was scored by Bremner on a pass from Gibson, and the second by Gibson assisted by Spence. This made the score 3-0 at the end of the second period.

Early in the last period Williams of Upper Canada picked up a rebound from Grant's pads and made the last score of the game. For the balance of the game the Andreans played a five-man offensive which kept the play within the U.C.C. zone. We were unable to score, however.

In spite of the score, and no doubt due to the ice surface, the play looked very even throughout the game. Upper Canada's first line of Bremner, Gibson and Spence, showed decided superiority in the powerful finish to their plays, for though their shots on goal were few, they made each one count. Of the Andreans it is hard to pick a star. Booth and Hendrie looked after the defensive work admirably, and the two-way play of Clarkson and McKenzie deserves mention.

U.C.C.—Williams, Macdonald, Spence, Wright, Crawford, Trelford, Bremner, Gooderham, Harvie, McLaughlin, Dalley, Gibson.

S.A.C.—McLeod, Franceschini, Garratt, Medland, Lowndes, Clarkson II, Brooke II, McKenzie, Hendrie II, Booth, Grant II, O'Brian III.

MACDONALD HOUSE AT T.C.S. JUNIOR SCHOOL

In spite of this late date the weather was cold enough to provide a hard sheet of ice in the Port Hope rink. Consequently this game turned out to be a hard, fast contest, with both teams giving a fine exhibition of play-making.

The scoring opened in St. Andrew's favour when, after six minutes of play, Franceschini was successful with a close shot. Within a minute Britton of Trinity had evened the score, and play was evenly divided until late in the period when McKenzie and Brooke of St. Andrew's combined to put Medland in a scoring position, and the period ended 2-1.

The second period opened with Garratt scoring for St. Andrew's, with a high shot from left wing, but T.C.S. soon decreased our lead when Murray picked up a loose pass inside the Andean territory and sent a high lob past O'Brian in the nets. The only other score of the period came when Franceschini combined with Garratt to circle the Trinity defence and bring the score to 4-2.

Trinity's perpetual ganging attack during the final period was a continual threat. On three occasions Grant, the Andean goalie, held out the Trinity forwards who broke through with only himself to beat.

Booth made the last tally of the game when he intercepted a pass and left all the T.C.S. team deep in the Andean territory. This brought the final score to 5-2 for Macdonald House.

T.C.S.—Symons (capt.), Britton, Kerfes, Murray, Howard, Stewart, Hope, Higginbotham, Gibson, Perry.

S.A.C.—McLeod (capt.), Garratt, Franceschini, Medland, Clarkson, McKenzie, Booth, Hendrie, Brooke II, Grant, O'Brian III.

A Letter from the Headmaster

DEAR OLD BOYS:—

I am glad to have the opportunity of writing a few lines to you by way of a foreword to the Old Boys' section of the REVIEW. Even in the best of times it is difficult, I know, for most of you to keep abreast of developments at the School; the extra strain of these busy and trying days will no doubt now prevent you all the more from keeping as closely in touch with us as you would like. I hope that this letter may help to bridge the gap.

During the past year, the School has by no means escaped the stresses and strains occasioned by the war, but we have fortunately not been very greatly affected as yet. Our numbers have not decreased and that indefinable but essential element known as "school spirit" has never been of a higher quality or more in evidence. It is this excellent spirit, I am sure, that has made the past year one of the most successful and happy years in the history of the School—indeed, many of the older Masters feel that it has been the best year that we have ever had. In the matter of greatest importance—the work of the classroom and study room—results have shown a steady improvement. The Upper Sixth, as a form, has gained itself the reputation of surpassing all its predecessors in scholastic achievement; with the majority of its twenty-three members writing the full nine papers of Honour Matriculation, over 75% of the final papers were recommended with 1st or 2nd class honours. Three members of the form are promising candidates for University scholarships. In Pass Matriculation, results were no less gratifying—300 papers passed out of a total of 330 written, or over 90% successes. The lower forms, too, have held up their end; averages over the year of 85% have not been uncommon. I might add that the scope and difficulty of the work done has been increased rather than lessened and that marking of examinations has been rigid. The good results have by no means been due to any unusual generosity on the part of the Masters!

With their success in studies, the boys have been able to combine a series of remarkable achievements in athletics. In the autumn, the football team was undefeated in all its games and won the Little Big Four championship; the hockey team headed its conference with T.C.S. and Pickering; the basketball team brilliantly won the championship in its group with T.C.S., U.C.C., Pickering and U.T.S. and was beaten only in the finals of the Toronto and District play-offs; the swimming team won by a large score in a meet with Western University; the track team amassed 51 points at the Ontario Athletic Commission meet with 7 firsts, 5 seconds and a third; four new School records were established on Games Day including a high jump record of 5 feet 10¼ inches made by Hamilton I (son of H. K. Hamilton, Vice-Pres. of the Old Boys' Association); 104 certificates of the Royal Life Saving Society were awarded over the year, and the Head Prefect (Allespach I—9 years in the School) earned the unique distinction of being appointed an Honorary Associate of the Society by the chief executive in London, England; and lastly, the cricket team tied with U.C.C. and Ridley for the Little Big Four championship after Forbes, captain and nephew of Rolph Grant, had performed the amazing feat of taking 10 wickets for 4 runs against U.C.C.—surely a record in Canadian cricket.

I should like to go on and tell you about the plays that were produced, how music has flourished and how the life of the boys has been rounded out by other intellectual and cultural pursuits—but enough for now. If you have read this far, you have probably been able to guess that the School is in good shape internally; and whatever may be the trials that lie ahead, we are determined that St. Andrew's shall go on to even better things. During wartime it is more essential than ever that we try to keep in touch with you, and you with the School, for you are the School's greatest strength and it is our hope that all her sons may continue to receive strength from her. The reorganisation of the Old Boys' Association will help to keep up contacts and I know that you will be pleased that Gordon Hewitt, after qualifying himself as a teacher, has now joined the Staff and will be able to carry on his splendid work as secretary of the Association directly from the School.

We are particularly anxious to hear when any of you go overseas and to know of any supplies that you need. A substantial fund has been raised by the Ladies' Guild, your own Association and the present school for the purpose of sending such supplies but I am sure that our overseas list is very incomplete.

This letter must end. Good luck to you all, especially to those of you who have joined the services, and remember that your old School never forgets you and prays that you will "faint not nor fear" in the days ahead.

Ever sincerely yours,

KENNETH KETCHUM.

Note: The School will appreciate any further information regarding Old Boys on active service in order that we may keep in touch with them and keep our records up to date. Please forward any such information as may come to your attention giving, where possible, the full name, rank, number, unit and address in each case.

In co-operation with the Ladies' Guild and the Old Boys' Association, the School has established a fund for the purchase and despatch of cigarettes and other comforts for the Old Boys overseas. Contributions to this fund may be made to the Secretary, St. Andrew's College, and will be greatly appreciated by "The Troops."

On arrival in New York Mr. Towers made the following characteristic statement to the Press "_____".
- 1936-1937. C. Douglas Murray (Iroquois Falls) is working in the Dome Mines, South Porcupine. He is applying for entry into the Air Force.
- 1910-1912. G. Herbert Lash was appointed Acting Director of Public Information for Canada. In February this appointment was made permanent and Mr. Lash is now Director of this Department. In acknowledging the congratulations sent by the Headmaster on the occasion of the first announcement, Mr. Lash wrote the following letter which will echo the sentiment of many an Old Boy: "What a noble company of old friends your letter of January the 17th recalled from the mists of the past. Mr. Laidlaw, whose violin gave me my first appreciation of fine music; Mr. Tudball, of whom I thought all the way through "Good-bye, Mr. Chips"; Dr. Robinson and Mr. Fleming for whose earlier grey hairs I must now accept responsibility.
- I am convinced that this job was created by the aspirin industry to increase its output. I shall need all the faith and sympathy of my friends, and it is comforting to know that I shall have them both in such large measure from these old Masters of mine. If any credit should attach itself to my performance the largest share of it will be due them. You will never know what they went through with me, because, being honourable, patient men, as all good Masters are, they will never tell. To them and to you I express my grateful thanks for your good wishes." (Signed) G. H. Lash.
- 1918-1923. All of Joel Cameron's old friends at St. Andrew's were extremely sorry to hear of his serious accident while skiing near Orangeville on February the 17th.
- 1902-1907. Austin C. Taylor (Vancouver) has been appointed a director of the Bank of Canada, succeeding the late Thomas Bradshaw. Since going out to the Coast Taylor has become one of its leading business men. He is President of the Bralorne Mines Ltd., Vice-President of Home Oil Distributors Ltd., and a director of B.C. Power Corp., B.C. Packers Ltd., and other firms. As relaxation and change of interest, Taylor goes in for a racing stable of thoroughbreds. Last year his Whickee ran third in the Santa Anita handicap and in 1936 his Indian Broom ran third in the Kentucky Derby. His most recent

- honour has been his election to the Council of the St. Andrew's College Old Boys Association.
- 1924-1930. The Rev. W. Gerald Burch, B.A., has been appointed to the parish of Scarborough Junction.
- 1932-1939. At the York County Musical Festival in Aurora, John Sisman was awarded the highest aggregate standing on a saxophone solo on the theme "Ben Bolt".
- 1923-1929. Fred R. Hume has been president of the Young Men's Section of the Toronto Board of Trade this season. He is practising law with his father's firm, Elliott, Hume, McKague and Anger, and has just completed a C.O.T.C. course to qualify for a commission in case his services are needed in His Majesty's forces.
- 1932-1939. Huestis Archibald has completed his first year at the University of Toronto with honours in Civil Engineering.
- 1936-1939. C. R. A. Senior passed with honours in Engineering at Queen's University. He recently spent a week-end at the college along with Donald Kirkpatrick from Montreal. Kirkpatrick took the occasion to play cricket for the first team in one of their "Friendlies".
- Paul (W. T.) Pentland (1929-37) and Andie Armstrong (1931-1936) have been spending a few weeks in sunny California. Paul evidently got the wanderlust from touring the continent with the Varsity Senior Hockey Team. Andie, no doubt, caught it from Paul.
- 1925-1930. Chester Macdonald, who was called to the Bar last September, has since that time been practising in Aurora. He is a frequent visitor to the school and an ardent fan.

Wit, wisdom and whatnot culled from casual correspondence.

From W. J. Blackburn (S.A.C. 1908-1910), Walkerville, Ont.

"My regards to Mr. Tudball, who always comes to mind whenever the College is mentioned. The intervening thirty years since I last saw him have probably erased any painful memories he may have had of me."

From Randolph Crowe (S.A.C. 1919-26) whose performance in Toronto last autumn in "I Married an Angel" many Old Boys will remember with pleasure.

Nashville, Tenn.

February 22, 1940.

"Just a note to say Hello! and give you some news of this long-bearded Old Boy by the name of Randolph Crowe or 'Norman Roland'.

"You can hardly blame me for changing my name even though the dear old Bard of Avon remarks 'The Crow(e) doth sing as sweetly as the lark when neither is attended.

"Since September the twenty-fifth I have been playing a leading rôle in Dwight Deere Wiman's touring production of 'I Married an Angel'.

"I greatly appreciated Mr. and Mrs. Ketchum's kindness in dropping backstage to see me while playing the Royal Alexandra in Toronto. Kindly convey my warmest regards to them as well as to the Misses Brookes and Mr. Laidlaw.

"I may be singing in light opera during the summer and hope to do some serious singing on the coast next fall."

From Flying Officer Struan F. Robertson, M.D., R.A.F. England (S.A.C. 1918-1929 and known in his Prep. form days as "Giant").

"I was very pleased to receive the notice of the Football Dinner. From the account which appeared in the REVIEW, the evening must have been a very successful one. I still get a thrill whenever I hear of the Old School being at the head of things. The list of those on active service and in training was particularly interesting; I shall watch with interest any additions in the future and hope before long to be meeting some of my old school friends over here. Although I joined up over here I shall take the first opportunity to transfer to a Canadian unit. Your informant of my rank made a slight error. In the REVIEW I am listed as a Flight Officer. There is no such rank except in the W.A.A.F. (The REVIEW makes a blushing apology.) Thank you for your kind thoughts and please remember me to any of my old friends and Masters who are still at S.A.C."

From Don Cantley, New Glasgow, N.S. (S.A.C. 1911-1916).

"I will be only too happy to act as the Nova Scotia representative on the Council of the Old Boys Association. . . .

"I am afraid it will be impossible for me to attend the Annual Dinner on March 30th, but I look forward to being in Toronto towards the latter part of April, when I hope to have the pleasure of seeing many of my old S.A.C. friends."

From H. P. Hill, barrister, Ottawa, Ont. (S.A.C. staff, 1902-1904).

"Your reference to the cricket game on the 24th of May has brought back to my memory an event that occurred when I was on the staff of St. Andrew's College. I think it was in 1902 when I was a law student in Toronto and I was acting as a housemaster when the school was in the Macpherson property on Yonge Street. A cricket match was arranged between the masters and the second team. In that game I fulfilled the cricket player's dream of making more runs than all the rest of the team put together. My recollection is that I made 3 runs and the rest of the team succeeded in piling up a score of 2. My memory may not be exact, it may have been that I made 4 and that the rest of the team made 3. In any event it was a truly wonderful exhibition of cricket that our team put up. The boys then went to bat, and I think I am quite safe in saying that if darkness had not intervened they would still have been batting."

From Russell T. Black (S.A.C. 1915 to 1920), Supervisor of South American Agencies, Sun Life Assurance Co., Montreal, Que.

"I left Montreal early in October and have only just returned (December 21, 1939). I went down to Buenos Aires for the Company and spent about a month there. Just missed the Graf Spee incident! Saw the Exeter, Ajax, Achilles and Cumberland and also had an opportunity of chatting with some of the officers. At that time they were bemoaning the lack of action. I guess they are better satisfied now!

I saw Bill and John Murchison, old S.A.C. boys."

The Board of Governors' Election of Representatives of the Old Boys' Association

As a result of the recent ballot for representation on the Board of Governors of St. Andrew's College, the following Old Boys have been elected to the Board for a term of three years, or until their successors are elected:

W. G. Fraser Grant, K.C. (1909-1915), Toronto.

Percy D. McAuity (1906-1908), Toronto.

G. Edward Whitaker (1909-1916), Brockville, Ont.

The REVIEW congratulates these representatives upon their election and in doing so is confident that it speaks for all the Old Boys.

Among those nominated for the Board in this election was Lyman P. Howe, one of our most loyal and devoted Old Boys and one whose service to the school and to the Old Boys' Association earned for him a pre-eminent right to represent us on the Board of Governors. His sudden and untimely death, coming as it did, while our members were in the very act of marking their ballots, has deprived us of the privilege of conferring upon him an honour which his services most richly deserved.

On Thursday, May 30th, a few hours only before his passing he wrote to the school a letter of characteristic modesty and good humour. It was not received until the following day.

"I am happy to ballot for three very good lads and would thank you to see that I rank not higher than fourth position."

The work he never shunned, the recognition always.

A tribute of flowers was sent to Mrs. Howe on behalf of the Old Boys and was most graciously acknowledged.

The Old Boys' Dinner

On Saturday, March 30th, another Old Boys' Dinner passed into history. And very pleasant history it makes for some hundred Andreans who helped to make it.

Following a brief but momentous Annual Meeting at which the Association became the beneficiary of a new and monumental Constitution, the members adjourned with keen anticipation to the Headmaster's residence where they were graciously received by Mr. Ketchum and enjoyed a genial half hour with old classmates and former masters amid surroundings which bespoke the artistic hand of Mrs. Ketchum.

Moving among the merry throng one met with Ted Broome of Montreal and Jack Preston of Brantford, both newly elected to the newly constituted "Council" of the Old Boys Association. Here were Cecil Kilgour, Clifford Dineen, Paul Gillespie, Austin Campbell and Gibbs Blackstock, all of whom had entered the school the first day the doors opened in 1899 in the Macpherson homestead on Chestnut Park Road. They were chatting with Dr. Robinson and Walter Findlay, who had been their first masters at the school. Cecil is now a Governor while Gibbs is on the new Council and plans a full round-up of "Patriarchs" for the dinner next year. Other Old Boy members of the Board of Governors encountered were Bob Grass, Bill McPherson and Gord Cassels.

The skirl of the pipes announced that "Dinner is served", and not without a few longing lingering looks behind the procession was led with traditional ceremony into the Dining Hall. Here again the flowers and decorations in crimson and white showed the same artistic touch.

Not the least amusing and revealing part of the proceedings came with the advent of the "piece de resistance". The head of each table carved (?) the chicken. The Battle Honours unquestionably went to Dr. Macdonald, whose skill and address he had unfortunately failed to impart to his former pupils—the curriculum should definitely be amended in this regard in future!

O wad some pow'r the giftie gie us—

To see ourselves—as some of us appeared at the Old Boys' Dinner. E. G. Adamson, Art Kilgour, Gibbs Blackstock, Chester Macdonald, Bill Lovering, Tom Forbes, Bob Waller and Ed. Whitaker as seen by Wally "Mac" of the Evening Telegram.

The Dinner was tendered by the School to the Old Boys and our thanks are due to Miss Robertson and her staff for its excellence.

With mingled feelings of reverence, mirth and apprehension Highland Honours were done the Haggis as it was heralded into the lists by O.B. Pipers Jim Henderson and Gord Christie, assisted by Piper McCarrol of the 48th. The Address to the Haggis was given by Gordon Hewitt, who spent a week in Scotland in 1926.

Dr. Ken McKenzie, as outgoing President of the Association, was in the Chair, and in his conduct of the proceedings showed that he has lost none of the resilience which in his College days won him the nickname "Rubber". From his "Gentlemen, The King!" to his gracious presentation of his successor in office, the interest never flagged.

The Toast to the School was most impressively and sincerely proposed by Dr. Staunton Wishart, our President of last year and member of the Board of Governors. Staunton stressed the important place which a boarding school like St. Andrew's, with its British Public School tradition, is filling and is destined to fill in the upbuilding of Canada. He threw out the suggestion to the Headmaster that at some early opportunity he speak to the Old Boys on this theme.

In responding to this toast Mr. Ketchum spoke most effectively. After extending a hearty welcome to the Old Boys he portrayed something of the life of the school during the past year and the way in which the boys are being prepared to meet the difficult and uncertain future which awaits them.

When the Headmaster had concluded his remarks the spontaneous response of his hearers showed that he had put beyond all doubt the vital part which St. Andrew's College is playing in Canadian life.

"March, March on Down the Field" and "Hoot Mon, Hoot", expressed in vivid terms the agreement of the Old Boys on the subject.

The Toast List now called for an "Address by G. Herbert Lash, Director of Public Information for Canada. Introduced by Dr. D. Bruce Macdonald, Headmaster 1900-1935, Chairman of the Board of Governors".

It was, perhaps, too much to hope for at such a time, when the news of the world is pouring in with bewildering volume upon an insatiable public, that the Director of Public Information could be spared from his "listening post" to return for even one evening to his old school. With an obviously sincere regret Herbert Lash wired that an urgent Press Conference in Montreal prevented his coming.

Our disappointment at the absence of Herbert Lash was in large measure compensated for by the presence of Dr. Macdonald, and the consensus of opinion was that he had never been in better form nor delivered a more stirring message. The school has come through one world war with colours flying, winning the gratitude, respect and plaudits of the nation for the heroism and devotion of her Old Boys, and while she faces with deep regret this second conflagration she meets the test in the calm confidence that her sons will place new laurels on her brow and show the nation once more that she is worthy of its honour and respect.

Dr. Macdonald paid a moving tribute to the courage and fortitude of Ed. Whitaker in facing and overcoming the disabilities with which his grievous war wounds had left him in 1918. His success in civil life had been won against great odds.

The guest of honour by general acclaim was this same Ed. Whitaker, our newly elected President, who was now called upon to take the chair. Captain of one of the greatest rugby teams ever to wear the crimson and white, and one of our greatest heroes of the last war, Ed., who had faced unflinchingly the greatest terrors of rugby and war confessed that his courage failed him in the face of the barrage of kindly tributes and applause. He declined to make a speech but finished by doing so in most affecting style.

In relinquishing office Ken. McKenzie outlined briefly what the outgoing Executive had sought to accomplish in drafting the new Constitution; to enlarge the sphere of influence of the Association by having members of Council in all parts of Canada and in other countries; to centre that influence upon the school; and to build up a large Life Membership Trust Fund, which might be the nucleus, perhaps, of a scholarship for sons of Old Boys. He pointed out that the Executive had co-operated with the Ladies' Guild and with the College to establish a fund for the purchase of cigarettes and other comforts for the Old Boys on Active Service. The Association had advanced $50.00 toward that fund and contributions to defray that cost would be gratefully accepted. The "Table Relay Cup" would be at the door as the members departed and contributions might be placed in it.

As a result of this appeal the sum of $25.35 was received by the Association.

Mr. David Ouchterlony, organist and music director of the school, presided at the piano and also gave us in a humorous and impromptu speech some sidelights on music at the College.—He nearly stole the show!

To top off the evening there were coloured motion pictures of the First Team rugby games played last autumn. For this record of one of our most impressive Little Big Four Championships we were indebted to Milton Wilson, Head Boy, 1939.

Thus ended (officially) the Old Boys' Dinner of 1940. The various unofficial endings would make good reading too, but they will have to be gleaned from the participants themselves.

The following telegrams were received and read at the Dinner:

"St. Johns, New Brunswick: Regret very much inability to be present at Old Boys' Dinner. Know perfectly well will have a marvellous evening. Kindest regards to all my vintage.

"P. D. McAvity."

(S.A.C. 1906-1908. Bd. of Governors 1936-1940.)

"Trincomalie, Ceylon. To Old Boys, St. Andrew's College, greetings from Ceylon.

"Caswell."

(Surgeon Lieut. Commander James W. Caswell, R.N., S.A.C. 1918-1920.)

President's Report

Mr. Headmaster, Doctor Macdonald and Fellow Andreans:

It is my pleasure to submit to you at this time, very briefly, the highlights of the progress of your Association during the past year.

May I at the outset express my sincere appreciation to the members of the Executive and the Headmaster for their work, keen interest and sound counsel. If I were to single out three individuals more than others, they would be Henry Hamilton, who so successfully organized the Football Dinner; Gordon Hewitt, your secretary, for whose continued interest and work we should be deeply appreciative; and, as always, Miss Daisy Brookes.

At this dinner last year Staunton Wishart presented an admirable report which crystallized certain ideas that he and many of us had gradually evolved. It was felt that certain changes in your Association were desirable.

Your Executive this past year has spent a good many hours in drawing up a written Constitution which embodies the ideas expressed in Staunton's report. This Constitution will be published in the REVIEW and if finances permit will be put in booklet form and sent out to all Old Boys.

The present form of the Association as drawn up in the Constitution differs from the past in that the affairs of the Association are to be administered from the College. We anticipate that it will be possible to have the Secretary and Treasurer of the Association living at the School as members of the Staff.

We anticipate that such an arrangement will accomplish much, for instance:

1. Old Boys should have no excuse for feeling that the Association is a local Toronto affair, expending fees on projects which have little to do with the School at large; or that it is an Association in which they can have little interest or hold office. As constituted now the Council is widely representative; for instance, your incoming President, Ed. Whittaker, is from Brockville.
2. Continuity of effort and records will be more feasible. The number of Old Boys has now grown so large that records must be brought up to date before the task becomes too burdensome; as it is, it is a problem that requires a great deal of effort, much more than can be expected from an Honorary Secretary, who, no matter how enthusiastic he may be, is likely to resign after a relatively short tenure of office and thus break the continuity of effort and records. The importance of the School keeping in close contact with the Old Boys is obvious, when we realize that one-fifth of the boys at School are sons of Old Boys.
3. It will provide the Headmaster, Mr. Ketchum, with an arrangement which will enable him to maintain a better contact with those Old Boys who left the College before his term. Doctor Macdonald and the older Masters will, we hope, be with us for years, but it is inevitable that these contacts will be broken in time.

FEES: The annual fee has been lowered to ONE DOLLAR, a sum which will do no more than carry incidental expenses such as printing and postage. However, such a small fee should assist the Secretary in a continued effort for a larger sustaining membership. From the School's standpoint it is much better to have a large widespread membership than a small local one, even though the aggregate fees be the same. The Life Membership of Twenty-five Dollars, or five instalments of Six Dollars, should now appeal to all Old Boys who can afford it. This Fund, which stands (as of March 30th) at $375.00, representing 15 Life Members, is held on trusts carefully laid down in the new Constitution. Life Members and any who might wish to leave legacies to this Fund can be assured that the principal is intact and invested in Ontario Trust Funds. In this respect we feel that the Constitution has implemented the sound plan envisaged by Staunton Wishart. If it were not for his personal effort the principal sum would not to-day be intact.

There are other points of interest in the Constitution, but I have said enough to indicate the broad principle that we hope it forms a basis on which the Old Boys' Association will be able to function with a steady, if not spectacular, continuity of effort. Many Old Boys are more interested in a quiet, long term progressive policy than intermittent spasmodic efforts which often irritate and even alienate some of our members.

Annual Meeting

Minutes of the Annual Meeting of the St. Andrew's College Old Boys' Association held at the College on Saturday, March the 30th, 1940, at 6:30 p.m.

The President, Dr. K. G. McKenzie, was in the chair, and the Secretary, Gordon W. Hewitt, acted as Secretary of the meeting.

About 60 Old Boys were in attendance.

It was moved by Dr. Staunton Wishart and seconded by Roy Lowndes that inasmuch as a full report of the last Annual Meeting had been published in the mid-summer issue of the REVIEW, the minutes of that meeting be adopted without a further reading. The motion was unanimously carried.

The Treasurer's Report of receipts and disbursements for the year 1939-40 was presented by R. E. Waller, who also read the Auditor's Report attached thereto.

On motion of R. E. Waller, seconded by Arnold Davison, the Treasurer's Report and the Auditor's Report were adopted and the Secretary was directed to attach the same to the minutes of this meeting.

New Constitution

The Chairman reported to the meeting that inasmuch as there was no record of any Constitution for the Association, a new Constitution had been drawn up during the past year to regulate the affairs of the Association; that the Executive Committee had given most careful consideration to the drafting of the Constitution and had consulted with other Old Boys who, by virtue of legal training, or experience in the affairs of the Association, were well qualified to advise on the matter.

The Chairman and the Secretary then outlined the general scheme of the new Constitution.

It was moved by Bill Adams, seconded by Roy McMurtry, that the draft Constitution, as propounded by the Executive Committee, be adopted as the Constitution of the Association, to become operative forthwith, and that a copy of the said Constitution be appended to the minutes of this meeting. The motion was unanimously carried.

The Secretary announced that in conformity with the new Constitution and consistent with previously existing practice the Executive had nominated a new Council or governing body for the Association as follows:

"And now concerning the Collection"

The Secretary combines business with pleasure.

Hon. President—Dr. D. Bruce Macdonald
 Hon. Vice-President—K. G. B. Ketchum
 President—G. E. Whitaker (1908-16), Brockville
 Vice-Presidents—Henry K. Hamilton (1908-09), Toronto
 Edward P. Broome (1923-26), Montreal
 Immediate Past Pres.—Dr. K. G. McKenzie (1905-09), Toronto
 Secretary—Gordon W. Hewitt (1911-19), S.A.C. Aurora (Ex-officio)
 Treasurer—W. A. Beer (1916-24), S.A.C. Aurora (Ex-officio)
 W. L. Lovering (1921-24), Toronto
 Hamilton Grass (1935-37), Toronto
 Peter C. Rea (1925-35), Toronto
 J. W. Taylor (1909-17), Toronto
 Gibbs Blackstock (1899-1906), Toronto
 Robert E. Waller (1922-32), Toronto
 Martin Kent (1933-38), Toronto
 Jack C. Preston (1927-30), Brantford
 Norman M. MacLeod (1913-17), Ottawa
 Donald F. Cantley (1911-16), New Glasgow, N.S.
 Lionel Munn (1910-14), St. John's, Nfld.
 Harris McFayden (1900), Winnipeg, Man.
 Austin Taylor (1902-07), Vancouver, B.C.
 W. D. Lightbourn (1915-18), Bermuda

It was pointed out that the Secretary and Treasurer would be ex-officio members of the Council and that of the other members of the Council six would hold office for one year, six for two years, and six for three years.

It was moved by George Armstrong and seconded by Starr Edmonds that the Secretary cast one ballot for the election of the Council nominated by the Executive and that the Council so elected be empowered to designate the term of office of the respective members, subject to the provision of the Constitution. The motion was unanimously carried.

The Chairman announced that immediately following the meeting there would be a reception in the Headmaster's house before the Dinner.

The meeting then adjourned.

G. E. WHITAKER,
President.

GORDON W. HEWITT,
Secretary.

The Life Membership Trust Fund

It is gratifying to recall the words of the the President's Report, delivered by Dr. Staunton Wishart at the Annual Meeting in 1939, and then to consider how well the lead which he then gave has been followed by other members of the Association.

"Helped by the generosity of an Old Boy of the College, who is to remain anonymous, your Executive deposited with the Bursar of the College, the sum of $300.00 to be invested in bonds to represent the twelve life memberships known to have been taken out in years passed.

"It is the hope of the outgrowing executive that the 'little snowball' will grow so that some day in the future the interest from the Life Membership Trust Fund will be a sum, the disposal of which will form an object of the keen attention of the Annual Dinner."

In the year which has elapsed since Staunton set this "little snowball" rolling the Life Membership has grown from twelve to twenty and comprises the following Old Boys:

LIFE MEMBERS OF THE ST. ANDREW'S COLLEGE OLD BOYS' ASSOCIATION

The late Lyman P. Howe

One of the most recent subscriptions comes from our most distant Life Member, Stuart B. Wood, Lima, Peru. It was accompanied by the following letter:

"A few days ago I received the circular letter re the Old Boys' Dinner, etc. One of these days I hope to be in Canada when one of the dinners takes place.

"I am enclosing my cheque for $27.00 which includes $25.00 for a life membership for myself in the Old Boys' Association, and $2.00 which was given me to remit for Aurelio Longaray (S.A.C. 1925-27) for the annual membership. He has recently moved and his new address is: Giron Arequipa 234; Dpto, 370, Lima."

There are two good examples set by Stuart Wood which any Old Boy well might emulate. Becoming a life member by subscribing $25.00 to the Trust Fund, and keeping the secretary advised of any Old Boys who have changes their addresses or otherwise distinguished themselves.

CONSTITUTION

ST. ANDREW'S COLLEGE OLD BOYS' ASSOCIATION

Adopted by the Annual General Meeting of the Association,
March 30, 1940

Article 1—Name

The name of the Association shall be "St. Andrew's College Old Boys' Association."

Article 2—Objects

The objects of the Association shall be:

(a) To preserve a close relationship between St. Andrew's College and its Old Boys, and to facilitate the active co-operation of Old Boys in the support and advancement of the College.

(b) To promote good fellowship among Old Boys of St. Andrew's College all over the world.

Article 3—Headquarters

The headquarters and principal office of the Association shall be at St. Andrew's College, Aurora, Ontario, where the books and records of the Association shall be kept.

Article 4—Membership

(a) Life Members: Any Old Boy who shall have subscribed and paid to the Life Membership Trust Fund, hereinafter mentioned, $25.00 (or $30.00 in five equal annual instalments of $6.00) shall be deemed to be a Life Member of the Association and as such shall be entitled to the following rights and privileges:

(i) To attend all General and Special Meetings of the Association.

(ii) To propose members for election to the Council.

(iii) To vote on all questions submitted to the members by the Council.

(iv) To be eligible for election to the Council.

(v) To be eligible to represent the Association on the Board of Governors of the College.

(b) Honorary Life Members: The Council may confer Honorary Life Membership upon any Old Boy, Master, ex-Master, Governor, Benefactor or Patron of St. Andrew's College whose service to the College or to the Association shall, in the opinion of the Council merit such membership.

The Headmasters from time to time of St. Andrew's College shall be Honorary Life Members of the Association.

Honorary Life Members shall be exempt from the payment of fees, but except in the case of Old Boys shall not have the privilege of voting or holding other than Honorary Office, and shall not be eligible to represent the Association on the Board of Governors of the College.

(c) Sustaining Members: Any Old Boy who shall pay such annual fee as the Council may from time to time prescribe shall be deemed to be a Sustaining Member and as such shall be entitled to the same rights and privileges as hereinbefore provided in the case of Life Members.

(d) Associate Members: The Council may admit into Associate Membership any Master, ex-Master, Governor or other person associated with or interested in St. Andrew's College on such terms as to fees and otherwise as the Council may determine.

(e) Non-sustaining Members: All other Old Boys shall be known as Non-sustaining Members but may become Sustaining or Life Members on payment of the prescribed fees.

Article 5—Election of Council and Officers

(a) The Governing Body of the Association shall be the Council which shall consist of not more than twenty-seven (27), and not less than twelve (12), members of the Association (such number, however, to be divisible by three), as widely representative as practicable of the distribution of Old Boys throughout the world.

(b) Such Council shall in the first instance be nominated and appointed by the Executive Committee as heretofore constituted. One-third of the members of the Council shall retire each year thereafter, in succession and shall not be eligible for re-election until the expiration of one year after such retirement except in the case of a councillor who has held office for less than two years.

At least one-third of the members of the Council at all times shall be ordinarily resident in the Toronto District.

(c) Prior to the Annual Meeting in each year the Council shall appoint from among the Sustaining and Life Members a sufficient number of Councillors to replace those retiring, to hold office for a term of three years.

(d) The Council shall in like manner elect each year a President, two or more Vice-Presidents (at least one of whom shall be from Toronto) and, subject as hereinafter provided, a Secretary and Treasurer (or a Secretary-Treasurer).

(e) The Council may from time to time, but within the limits and subject to the provisions hereinbefore prescribed, fill casual vacancies and may vary the number of councillors.

(f) The Secretary and Treasurer of the Association shall, whenever practicable, be permanent members of the Staff of St. Andrew's College, and in such case shall, if Old Boys, be ex-officio members of the Council.

(g) The term of office of each new Council shall commence at the conclusion of the Annual Meeting. But the Annual Old Boys' Dinner, when held in conjunction with the Annual Meeting, shall for the purpose of this clause, be deemed to form part of such meeting.

(h) The members of the Council residing in the Toronto District shall constitute an Executive Committee of the Council to deal with matters of merely local interest and to exercise such other powers as the Council may from time to time delegate to them. The Senior Officer of the Council in Toronto shall, unless otherwise provided by the Council or by the Executive Committee, be the Chairman of such Committee.

Article 6—Honorary Officers

The Council may from time to time appoint an Honorary President and not more than three Honorary Vice-Presidents, who shall hold office from year to year or until their respective successors shall be appointed.

Article 7—Meetings

(a) The Annual Meeting of the Association shall, whenever practicable, be held in conjunction with and immediately preceding the Annual Old Boys' Dinner at such time and place as the Council may from time to time determine.

(b) Notice of the Annual Meeting shall be mailed to each member of the Association at least ten (10) days prior thereof. Such notices to be addressed to the respective members at the last known address appearing on the record of the Association.

(c) Special General Meetings may be called at such times and places as the Council may direct, subject to such notice as may be deemed reasonable, having regard to the urgency and importance of the matters to be dealt with at such meeting. The said notice shall specify concisely the matters to be so dealt with.

(d) Meetings of the Council may be called at such times and places as the President or a Vice-President, and the Secretary, or in their absence or inability or unwillingness to act, any five Councillors may direct. Each Councillor shall be entitled to such notice of such meetings as in each case may be deemed reasonable, having regard to his distance from the place of meeting and the important of the matters to be dealt with at such meeting.

(e) The Council may submit by mail to the members or to any appropriate class of members by way of questionnaire, ballot, or other appropriate means, any question or matter which might be submitted to or dealt with by such members at any annual or special general meeting of the Association, provided, however, that having regard to all the circumstances a reasonable time shall be allowed and specified for receiving replies.

(f) The President or a Vice-President, and the Secretary, or in their absence, inability, or unwillingness to act, any five Councillors may similarly submit by mail to the members of the Council any question or matter which might be submitted to and dealt with by any meeting of the Council.

(g) Save as otherwise specifically required all questions and matters submitted to the members or Councillors or to any meeting thereof shall be determined by a majority of the votes cast in respect thereto. The President or Chairman shall in all cases be entitled to vote and in the case of an equality of votes shall have a second or casting vote.

(h) Fifteen members shall constitute a quorum at any meeting of the Association, general, annual or special. One-quarter of the Councillors represented in person or by proxy shall constitute a quorum of the Council.

Article 8—The Annual Dinner

An Old Boys' Dinner shall be held annually at such time and place as the Council in consultation with the Headmaster shall from time to time determine but shall when practicable be held at St. Andrew's College, Aurora, on or before the first Saturday after Easter.

Article 9—Auditors

The Council shall appoint a competent auditor or auditors to examine the books and accounts of the Association and to report to the members thereon at the Annual Meeting.

Article 10—Representatives to the Board of Governors

For the purpose of the election of representatives of the Old Boys' Association to the Board of Governors of St. Andrew's College, pursuant to the Statute and By-Laws in that behalf, all Life Members and Sustaining Members of the Association shall be entitled to vote and shall be eligible for election.

Article 11—Finance: (a) Life Membership Trust Fund

- (i) All moneys received by the Association by way of Life Membership fees, or by way of subscriptions, donations, bequests or otherwise, to the said Fund, shall be committed to the Bursar of St. Andrew's College to be held in trust for the Association as a Fund to be known as The Life Membership Trust Fund and shall be invested in such securities as may be prescribed by Statute in Ontario for the investment of Trust Funds.
- (ii) The annual net income from the investment of the said Trust Fund shall in the first instance be used to pay or provide so far as necessary for the proper expenses of the Association and the balance, if any, shall be accumulated and used for such purposes of the Association or of St. Andrew's College as the Council may from time to time direct.

(b) General Funds: All other moneys received by the Association shall be used for the general purposes or benefit of the Association or for the support and advancement of St. Andrew's College, and shall not be used for the social, athletic or other activities of any local group of Old Boys. But nothing herein contained shall be deemed to preclude the Council from raising funds or soliciting subscriptions for any specific purpose.

For the purpose of this section the Headmaster and Secretary shall have the right to exercise their discretion in determining whether or not any proposed undertaking or activity is for the general purposes or benefit of the Association or for the support or advancement of St. Andrew's College.

Article 12—Amendments to the Constitution

(a) The Constitution may be amended from time to time by a three-fourths vote of the Council but such amendment shall not take effect until confirmed by a majority vote of members represented in person or by proxy or voting by ballot at any annual or special general meeting.

(g) Notice of any such amendment together with a copy thereof or a concise statement of its purport, and a form of proxy or ballot shall accompany the notice calling such annual or special meeting.

Obituaries

Dr. William James Kerr, of 62 Beaufort Avenue, Toronto, who attended St. Andrew's in 1917 and 1918, died on December 31st, 1939, after a long illness the result of an infection accidentally acquired in the routine of practice. At school he was a good student and active in sport. During the Great War he served in the Royal Air Force. Dr. Kerr was a past president of the Toronto Academy of Dentistry and highly esteemed in his profession; he was a member of various clubs and active in church work. Warm tributes of affectionate regard attended his passing. To his widow and four sons the Review extends sincere sympathy.

Lieutenant-Colonel D. Graham McIntosh, K.C., of Kitchener, passed away on the 12th of April. A former Commander of the Royal Scots Fusiliers of Canada, president of the North Waterloo Conservative Association, and member of the Board of Governors of St. Andrew's College, Mr. McIntosh was affectionately esteemed by a wide circle of friends. As a boy he entered St. Andrew's in September, 1902, and the University of Toronto in 1907; he was called to the bar in 1914. Wounded in the Great War he returned to Canada where he resumed his military career as a staff officer at London, Ontario, until the war ended. In 1918, Colonel McIntosh married Miss Mary C. Kranz, daughter of the late Carl Kranz, a former Mayor of Kitchener. Of their three sons, Duncan and Charles have recently been in attendance at St. Andrew's. A brother of Colonel McIntosh, also an Andrean, was a victim of the Great War. In the death of Colonel McIntosh St. Andrew's has lost a firm friend of the Scotch Presbyterian stock to whom the School owes so much.

Pilot Officer William James Grace Mitchell, of Kirkfield, Ontario, who lost his life in France on May the 25th, attended St. Andrew's College from September, 1931, to June, 1932. His father, Lieutenant Charles Mitchell, was a lieutenant in the Royal Air Force in the Great War; he was a grandson of the late Major J. C. Grace of Toronto. The late Pilot Officer William Mitchell was employed by the Bank of Montreal before going overseas in May, 1938.

Kenneth Carlyle Findlay, of Carleton Place, who died on December 25th, 1939, entered St. Andrew's College in October, 1927, and McGill University in 1931, graduating from McGill in 1935 with the degree of Bachelor of Commerce. At St. Andrew's he served as a prefect and was a member of the first Rugby, Hockey and Cricket teams. Later on he continued his interest in athletics and was a keen golfer and champion of the Ottawa District in 1939. His opponent in the match remarked, "He was the finest and most sporting player I have ever played against. I have never lost to a more gracious opponent." All those who knew Ken Findlay will wish to extend deep sympathy to his brothers—David, Hamilton, George and John, who are old Andreans, and to his widow, formerly Miss Betty Stewart of Montreal.

Thomas Newton Hay, of 28 Halton Street, Toronto, familiarly known as Tommy, entered St. Andrew's in September, 1902. He was one of the old original group who attended the College while it was still in Chestnut Park. He was a participant in all school activities; he played quarterback on the first football team and was a member of the second hockey team. Later he played with the Toronto Argonauts. In business his conscientious work won him confidence and respect. He held for some time the position of Secretary-Treasurer of Noranda Mines Limited, one of the largest mining companies in Canada. He retired from this position about two years ago on account of ill health. We regret to record his death on the eleventh of April.

Lyman Paul Howe (St. Andrew's 1903-1907), of 97 Roxboro Street East, Toronto, who died suddenly at the Toronto General Hospital on May the 30th last, was closely associated for many years with the Old Boys Association of which he was the secretary from 1916 to 1921 and president from 1921 to 1924 a Life Member and on its committees for a long period of years. Mr. Howe was the Old Boys' representative on the Board of Governors of the School from 1920 to 1929. For several years he was connected with the Norwich Union Fire Insurance Company and since 1911 was with the firm of Northrop & Lyman. He was affectionately known to a large circle of friends and his work for the Old Boys' Association was outstanding. No appeal for assistance was ever rejected. The School has lost a strong supporter and a firm friend. The Review extends sympathy to the members of his family and especially to his son, Mr. Peter Howe, recently one of our number.

We regret to report as we go to press the death on June the 3rd of Captain Charles Reginald Snelgrove of 105 Carlton Street, Toronto, who attended St. Andrew's from 1908 to 1913. During the Great War he served in the Army Service Corps and in 1918 accompanied the Siberian Expeditionary Force to Vladivostock. Captain Snelgrove has recently been employed as an artist on the staff on the Toronto Evening Telegram.

DRUMS OF THE NORTH

In Canada's north country a drum is not a musical instrument. It is something more precious. It is a container for oil—the north country's life-blood.

Drums of the north may hold gasoline—fuel oil—lubricating oil—kerosene. You see them everywhere there is any activity.

For there could be no activity "down North" without oil. Oil for mines—oil for aeroplanes—oil for tractor trains—oil to supply power and lubrication for everything that moves . . . and to be indispensable in countless other ways.

Some of the oil comes from Imperial Oil's Fort Norman refinery—away on the edge of the Arctic Circle. Some comes from Imperial's refineries "up South." Pioneers can't afford to take chances on quality. That's why drums of the north are usually Imperial Oil drums.

Central Banking in the British Dominions

BY

A. F. W. PLUMPTRE*Assistant Professor of Political EconomyUniversity of Toronto*

"This is the first major interpretive survey of the operations and effects of the new Empire chain of central banks that has come into existence since the war . . . a most comprehensive study written with that almost whimsical lucidity of style that has made him one of the most readable of our Canadian economists.
